U. S. TAR WINS HEIRESS BRIDE WHO WILL WAIT MORE THAN YEAR IN ATLANTA BEFORE HE'S FREE

MRS. A. HARRINGTON WILSON,
formerly Miss Coleen Curry, of Key West, Fla., whose romance that began in the tropics came to climax in Atlanta when she married A. H. Wilson, who must yet wear uniform sixteen months. She will wait for her husband at the home of friends in Inman Park.

Romance of Tropics Comes to Climax in Atlanta When Miss Coleen Curry, Florida Heiress, Weds A. H. Wilson, Hospital Apprentice, U. S. Navy

It may have been mere moonshine or the ineffable softness of the tropic wind, or both, which began the romance of Dry Tortugas between Miss Coleen Curry, Key West heiress, and A. Harrington Wilson, hospital apprentice, United States navy.

But whatever it was, it was a romance. It always is when an heiress marries a mere bluejacket in the teeth of her family and comes to Atlanta to do it.

It began at Dry Tortugas, that lonely but lovely way off the southwest coast of Florida, deep in the Mexican gulf, where they have sub-tropic moonlight and white nights. It came to a climax in Atlanta on Friday, June 13, in the Church of the Incarnation, West End. It will end happily enough, no doubt, sixteen months from now when young Wilson gets his discharge from the navy and comes to Atlanta to live.

The story, briefly, is that Miss Curry, daughter of Robert Curry, Key West millionairess, met young Wilson, an enlisted navy apprentice, while camping this winter at Dry Tortugas. Nothing happened at once, for it was hardly to be expected that an heiress would see anything in a bluejacket. But Dry Tortugas is a sub-tropic cay where moonshine, etc., and six long weeks of it gets into one's blood.

CALLED HOME BY WIRELESS.

Officers at Fort Jefferson, on the cay, duly reported the romance to Key West and frantic dispatches from Mrs. Curry came by wireless ordering her daughter home.

Hardly had she landed in Key West when Wilson obtained a transfer and also landed there. Parental protests increased and Miss Curry was sent to Atlanta to visit relatives.

Nothing daunted, young Wilson got a shore leave of several days and came to Atlanta two weeks ago. The pair were married by the Rev. John Wing, of the West End Episcopal church.

All efforts on the part of the bride to have Wilson discharged from the navy were unavailing and he went back to his station at Key West last week to serve the remaining sixteen months of his term.

In Key West Mrs. Robert Curry looks upon her daughter's action coldly and has announced that she will not be reconciled to the situation.

In Inman Park young Mrs. A. Harrington Wilson is confident that everything will come out all right, happy in any event, and sure that she would do the same thing over again.

"You have never been to Dry Tortugas, I suppose," she said. "If you had you would understand it all. If a person doesn't want to fall in love they better stay away from Dry Tortugas. It has a reputation for that you know.

"I don't know just how it happens. I couldn't tell you, for I don't know, but it was in the air there. I was thrown with him a lot and when I got away and back to Key West I knew I would not be happy without him, no matter how impossible it seemed."

Sitting in the home of Roscoe Walker, 21 Claiborne avenue, Mrs. Curry Wilson talked freely of her unusual romance and seemed perfectly serene as to its outcome. She is an attractive young woman of a dark type with hint of her Spanish blood in her eyes and hair. She laughed frankly as she talked and seemed not a will disconcerted by the unbending attitude of her mother.

MR. WILSON'S CAREER.

"I don't want you to think Mr. Wilson is a mere bluejacket, for he isn't. He is a college man and just took a notion to join the navy and joined. He wishes he were out now and I expect to get him out if I can. Some of my relatives in Florida are going to help me and I am going to Secretary Daniels myself if necessary."

Young Wilson is the son of Dr. James H. Wilson, of St. Angelo, Tex. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois and has a brother who is a prominent banker in New Orleans. During his brief service in the navy he has been attached to the hospital corps because of his knowledge of medicine.

The late Henry M. Flagler selected the then Miss Curry as sponsor for the opening of the seaboard end of the Florida East Coast railroad two years ago and she was the center of the great fete held in Key West to celebrate the completion of the road. Her father, the late Robert Curry, was a prominent and influential Florida business man.

DR. JOSEPH JACOBS IS MARRIED IN NEW YORK

Well Known Business Man and Popular Atlantian Weds Mrs. M. E. Dickens

Dr. Joseph Jacobs, president of the Jacobs chain of drug stores and one of Atlanta's foremost business men and most popular citizens, was married at noon Thursday at the Plaza hotel in New York City, to Mrs. M. E. Dickens, of Philadelphia, Pa.

The news of the wedding will come as a great surprise to many of Dr. Jacobs' friends, for although it has been known for some time that he was to be married, no definite announcement had been made.

Dr. Jacobs left for New York a few weks ago with some intimate friends, all of whom were present at the wedding. Among them were Miss Daisy Jacobs, Mrs. Evelyn Sweet Prescot, Mr. Sinclair Jacobs, Mr. Walter Rich, Mr. Rudolph Adler and Mr. Eugene Oberdorfer.

Mrs. Jacobs has never visited in Atlanta but is said to be one of Philadelphia's most charming women.

Dr. and Mrs. Jacobs will sail for Europe Monday to spend three weeks, when they will return to Atlanta and make their future home here.

Dr. Jacobs is one of Atlanta's best known and most prominent citizens, both in the business world and socially. He is the owner of eleven large drug stores in Atlanta and several more in other southern cities.

PROBE OF U. S. JUDGE MORE RUSSIAN THAN AMERICAN---SPEER

Judge Emory Speer in Address Before Iowa State Bar Association Declares Such Investigations Are Dangerous

"INTOLERABLE" IS WAY HE EXPRESSES SITUATION

Federal Judge Attacks Attorney General While Examiners Are Investigating Conduct in Savannah and Macon

(By Associated Press.)

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, June 26.—Criticism of the department of justice for "arbitrary espionage or investigation" of federal judges by means of examiners, by Judge Emory Speer, United States judge for the southern district of Georgia, was a feature of the annual meeting of the Iowa State Bar association, which met here today.

Judge Speer spoke with great vigor and emphasis, declaring the situation as "intolerable." He said, in part:

"More dangerous than the power to disqualify a judge is the power to disgrace and defame him. My brethren, I ask you to consider if, in the utter absence of all charges against him, is not the recently adopted method of arbitrary espionage or investigation of a judge, made by examiners, as they are termed, of the department of justice, under the direct order of the attorney general, to maltreat American judges with cruel and apparently callous indifference to their reputation and good name?

"I speak impersonally and with all due deference and respect for the head of the department who is ex-officio the leader of the American bar. He is, however, also the leading counsel for the government, and no matter how considerate, how equable in thought and language, how completely non-partisan he may be, ought any lawyer have inquisitorial power over the judge who is to try his case, and, least of all, should this power be exercised in a land where the independence of the judiciary is the very foundation stone of the national structure?

IS INDEED INTOLERABLE.

"Is is not indeed intolerable that the lawyer who is the leading counsel for the government shall have within his power and control, the right to question the honor and character, official and personal, of the judge upon whom determinations of all national jurisdiction must depend?

"True, the attorney general can act at any time and make any accusations he thinks proper, as can any citizen, but can he constitutionally exert the powers, detail the officials, utilize the machinery and expend the money of the government in inquisitorial examinations of a judge, appointed by the president and confirmed by the senate, and who holds his office during good behavior. Where is the constitutional right or statutory authority?

"Does this not commit to a lawyer on one side of a multitude of cases the right to investigate the title to his office of the trial or appellate judge, and if this could ever be properly done, should it ever be done without notice to the judge and information to him of the complaints again him?

"Would even the president, with all his initiative and power, attempt this, and if the attorney general has no such power, can his examiner lawfully appear at the court and formally enter upon the inquisition of a judge?

"And, finally, if there ever could be a stand on which to make such inquiries, should it ever be done when the court is in actual session and when the judge should be undisturbed in those absorbing, intense and exacting intellectual efforts and labor on which the rights of property and of liberty must depend?

MORE RUSSIAN THAN AMERICAN.

"This method is very, very recent. I dare declare that no other could be more offensive to the dignity of judicial vigor. With experience of four years in the service of my state, and thirty-four years in the service of my country, I declare that no other proceeding can be so destructive of the confidence and support accorded the judiciary by the masses of the people. If proper with the district judge, it is equally proper with the judges of the supreme court of the United States. For action less directly in the presence of the grave law interfering with the administration of justice, men have been convicted for contempt of court, and the convictions have been sustained. It is indeed to place the judge at the mercy not only of the chief, but of the subordinate of an executive department, not only confidential, and not an American method. Aye, it is more Russian than American. Then, too, there is no end to it.

"Will the attorney general longer permit such continuous torture to the judges of our country? And shall this unamerican method continue? By it and similar aggressions upon the independence of the judiciary shall the august fabric which Marshall and the great judges who held with him have builded, amid the cursings of the mob, the jeers of the hoodlum, and the mouthings of the demagogue, crumble into nothingness?

Attack Inspired by Probe Of Speer's Own Conduct?

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., June 26.—The sensational attack of Judge Emory Speer, of Macon, at Sioux City today on the attorney general of the United States and the department of justice for the investigation of federal judges was no doubt brought about by the investigation of Judge Speer now in progress in this district.

Judge Speer has been very indignant about the appearance of the department of justice investigators here and has not hesitated to express himself on the subject to his friends.

Mr. R. C. Lewis, who was designated by the attorney general to make the investigation, spent several weeks here attending sessions of the court, making notes on the proceedings and visiting lawyers and citizens, asking various

MRS. L. S. ROAN.

SENATE PUTS O. K. ON BROWN'S APPOINTMENTS

Famous Education Board List Goes Through Without Fight

The state senate Thursday confirmed Governor Brown's much-discussed appointments on the state board of education. These appointments were held up last summer by the outgoing senate after senators had decided that Governor Brown could not supercede the appointments of former Governor Hoke Smith. Governor Brown issued commissions to the appointees, nevertheless, on August 15, 1912, after the senate had adjourned.

The mooted appointees were G. R. Glenn, of Dahlonega, named to supercede Dr. Jere Pound, of Athens, who had been appointed by Governor Smith, and A. H. Moon, of Appling county, appointed to supercede J. E. Langston, also a Smith appointee. One other appointment on the board made by Governor Smith was T. J. Woofer, of Clarke county, was confirmed, and Walter E. Steed, of Taylor, appointed to succeed the late Judge Lawson, also was ratified.

The senate went into executive session shortly after 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning to consider a batch of appointments made between sessions.

It was thought at first that there would be some contest on the question of confirming the famous board of education names, but none developed. Senators who were at the star chamber session declared that all the appointments were ratified without hitch.

A full list of the appointments are:

G. R. Glenn, Lumpkin county, state board of education from August 15, 1912, to September 5, 1915.

T. J. Woofer, Clarke county, state board of education for same time.

Walter E. Steed, Taylor county, state board of education, August 15, 1912, to September 5, 1913.

A. N. Moon, Appling county, state board of education for same time.

W. L. Phillips, judge city court of Louisville.

Carl Vinson, judge county court of Baldwin.

Ben M. Turnipseed, judge of city court of Fort Gaines.

John F. Redding, judge city court of Zebulon.

Philip Newbern, judge city court of Ocilla.

Joseph W. Smith, board of trustees state normal school for six years.

M'REYNOLDS DECLINES TO COMMENT ON SPEER

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Attorney General McReynolds, who was busy today in the negotiations for the dissolution of the Union Pacific merger, declined to comment on Judge Emory Speer's speech attacking the department of justice until he had opportunity to read the speech closely.

CALL OF COOL SEA BREEZES AND PROMISE OF JUDGE TO HIS WIFE, SECRETS OF FRANK TRIAL DELAY

There Are Many Little Reasons, of Course, but the Biggest of These Is the Simplest—Judge Roan Just Had to Keep Promise to His Charming Wife—And Nobody's Kicking, Either

The trial of Leo M. Frank, which is expected to be the most brilliant legal battle in the history of the state, has been postponed for a month.

There are many little reasons why the trial could not come up on June 30.

And, then, there is one great big reason.

The biggest reason, when analyzed, is also the simplest, as are most big things.

The big reason is the simple fact that Mrs. Judge L. S. Roan wants to go to the seashore early in July.

Of course Mrs. Roan might go to the seashore by herself with any of her many friends, but she wants her husband to make the trip with her, and long before the Phagan case developed Mrs. Roan had secured Judge Roan's promise to take the trip with her.

When the judge called Solicitor Hugh Dorsey, Luther Z. Rosser and Reuben R. Arnold before him Tuesday afternoon and told them that it would be best to agree upon a definite date for the trial of Mr. Frank, they looked a little puzzled for the moment.

Solicitor Dorsey appeared not to want a postponement, and flatly said so. In fact, he argued every time he got a chance, trying to get an early date, and finally asked the court if he wouldn't set the case for the week of July 7.

EVERYBODY WAS PLEASED.

Then the court explained, and after he had explained a quick smile of complete understanding passed over the court room. Mr. Rosser smiled first, then Mr. Arnold, and finally Solicitor Dorsey.

Said the court with the usual dignity:

"Well, gentlemen, another reason is that some months ago I promised my wife that I would take her to the seashore on the week of July 4 and spend some days there with her.

"Of course, if there is any good reason why this trial should be taken up early in the month, if it will be impossible for you to reach it later, I can send Mrs. Roan with friends and remain here."

The judge's statement was made in the nature of a question, but it brought forth no answer.

Those fortunate enough to know the charming lady who is the wife of the judge of the Stone Mountain circuit had no idea even of intimating that from the jurist should be taken the pleasure of accompanying her on a short vacation, and the subsequent remarks of the court and attorneys dealt solely with the best date for the trial—after the trip to the sea.

THE MINOR REASONS.

Of course there are some other reasons why the case was postponed. In the first place if the conference had not been called, it was still very probable that on next Monday when the court opened attorneys in the case might have offered a legal excuse and forced the postponement. The result would have been the state would have been put to the useless expense of summoning 150 veniremen, who could be of no service.

Again, had the court proceeded with the trial next Monday it would have been held in the regular criminal court room, a low ceilinged, poorly ventilated, hot and stuffy place where the intense heat of this season of the year would make it dangerous for judge, jury, lawyers and spectators.

Had the trial started on June 30 as scheduled, the Fourth of July would have intervened, and twelve good jurors would have been locked up in a hot stuffy hotel room an unnecessary twenty-four hours.

By agreement among counsel the chances of having one side make a good excuse and put the state to a big expense are minimized if not quite eliminated. By starting the trial after July 12 the criminal court can have use of any of the court rooms in the old city hall building which are larger and much more pleasant than the regular criminal court. The Fourth will not interfere and the interest of the state generally will be served.

Still further, by trying routine cases during the first part of the coming week, many cases can be disposed of, and probably more than one innocent fellow who has been sweltering in the jail can secure his liberty through a jury trial.

And then, Judge Roan has been kept within his circuit by his arduous duties continually for the past twelve months and by all of the laws of right and reason, 89 counsellors agree, he should fulfill his promise to his charming wife, and at the same time save the state money; the lawyers' health, and give liberty to some of the poor unfortunates who have been lying for weeks in a hot jail without attracting any attention.

AEROPLANE FOR MEXICO SMUGGLED OVER BORDER

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 26.—Adolfo Vallareal was arrested here last night by the United States marshal's office on a charge of violation of the neutrality laws in connection with the smuggling into Mexico of an aeroplane used by the Sonora rebels. Although he was dressed as a laborer, the authorities declare that the Mexican is a man of prominence and wealth.

The arrangements with Aviator Didier Masson, who has used the machine in recent battles near Guaymas, supposedly were made through some Mexican agent at Los Angeles, where the machine was made and sold.

LEGISLATIVE PROBE OF ALLEGED LIQUOR LOBBY IS PROPOSED

Senator Hixon Declares if Rumors Are True Legislature Should Force Whisky Lobbyists Into Open

TEMPERANCE PEOPLE TO CONCENTRATE ON ONE BILL

Measure, Carrying Webb Law Into Effect by Preventing Shipments Into Georgia, Introduced in Senate

It became known Thursday morning that the prohibition leaders in the general assembly are seriously considering the advisability of introducing resolutions providing for the appointment of a joint committee from the house and senate to investigate persistent rumors that a well-organized and powerful liquor and beer lobby was at work among the legislators.

It also developed that the prohibitionists would bend their energies at this session to driving the liquor lobbyists out into the open and toward having a law enacted which will make a direct application to Georgia of the national law known as the Webb bill.

Such a law, if passed, will prohibit the shipment of liquors and malt beverages into the state except in very limited quantities and to individuals who desire them for personal use. A bill of this kind, was introduced in the senate Thursday morning by Senator John T. Hixon, of the Thirty-seventh district, who has been selected by the Anti-Saloon League of Georgia to lead the fight in the senate for more stringent anti-liquor legislation.

SAYS LOBBY IS HERE.

Discussing the alleged presence of a numerous and insistent liquor lobby, Senator Hixon said:

"I have heard from various sources that men representing the whiskey and beer interests have established headquarters in one of the hotels of the city and are actively organizing a fight against the proposed prohibition measure.

"I am further informed that these men are unusually bold this year, and that the purpose, if they receive the slightest encouragement in their efforts to throttle the bill applying the Webb law to Georgia, to have introduced and seek to enact a law which will permit the sale of liquor in original packages in the larger counties of the state.

"If the liquor and beer forces wish to lobby for or against any bills, they should comply with the anti-lobbying law, which requires every lobbyist to register with the secretary of state and indicate by whom and for what he is employed and also whether he receives compensation for his services.

"There is a legal and an illegal way to lobby and the liquor advocates should not be permitted to disgrace the state and reflect upon the integrity of its lawmakers by gum-shoeing around the hotel lobbies and capitol corridors.

WANTS INVESTIGATION

"If an inquiry reveals that persistent reports are true and that the paid liquor lobbyists have assembled their forces in Atlanta to use sinister methods in influencing legislation there will doubtless be an investigation by a committee of the legislature which will result in dragging these facts out into the open. Such an investigation would throw the spotlight on all dark corners."

It was reported Thursday that the liquor and beer forces, which have operated separately since the enactment of the prohibition law in 1907, have about adjusted their differences and they will probably be united in their opposition to further prohibition legislation.

During the past few days several conferences have, it is said, occurred between the liquor and beer representatives with the result that a working agreement is said to have been perfected.

The prohibition fight will be led in the senate this year by Senator Hixon, of the Thirty-seventh district and Senator W. E. H. Searcy, Sr., of the Twen-

MAJOR BEECHER B. RAY WILL NOT BE PROMOTED

Attorney General Decides Junior Officers of Same Grade May Be Promoted

WASHINGTON, June 26.—An officer in the army below the rank of brigadier general who ranks highest on the list for promotion in his grade may be superseded by those below him whenever his record is such as to disqualify him.

This opinion, given to President Wilson last night by Attorney General McReynolds, opens the way for promotions over the head of Major Beecher B. Ray, whom the administration considers disqualified by the report of the house committee on expenditures in the war department made last August.

The report was made the day after President Taft had nominated Major Ray to be deputy paymaster general with the rank of the lieutenant colonel and the nomination failed of confirmation.

SMITH ASKS $11,000,000 TO FINANCE COTTON CROP

South Carolina Senator Introduces Bill Authorizing That Amount of Bonds

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Deposits of $11,000,000 of government bonds in banks of cotton-growing states would be authorized by a bill introduced today by Senator Smith of South Carolina.

The bonds would represent the amount held by the treasury for cotton seized at the time of the Civil war, claims for which have been adjudicated, and which the amount of the revenue tax on cotton collected by the government just after the war and before the supreme court held the tax unconstitutional.

Senator Smith said today that the money properly belonged in the cotton states and that the government should keep it on deposit there until all claims against it have been settled.

His bill specifies that the money is to be deposited in the southern banks, "for the purpose of aiding the producers in financing the cotton crop."

10,000 INCHES OF SKIN NEEDED FOR VICTIMS

300 Volunteers Must Furnish Cuticle if Sufferers of Husted Fire Survive

(By Associated Press.)

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 26.—More than 10,000 square inches of skin must be given for grafting purposes if the death list of the Husted Elevator explosion and fire is to be kept from reaching far more appalling proportions, according to conservative estimates of physicians treating the injured.

To meet this demand the services of 300 volunteers will be required. A public appeal soon will be made.

No more bodies had been recovered this morning. Debris, piled sixty feet high, still must be removed.

GERMAN-AMERICANS SEE BIG PAGEANT IN DENVER

DENVER, Col., June 26.—Intended to be the one big educational feature of the program, the allegorical pageant today was pronounced the most instructive as well as impressive lessons ever given by the North American Gymnastic union. Through the scenery of forty-nine floats, on which were grouped turners costumed in keeping with the period they represented, the story of the development of the German nation and the part played by German-Americans in the founding and upbuilding of the American republic was told graphically. The pageant was divided into three sections.

GERMANY'S BIGGER ARMY IS RICH MAN'S BURDEN

BERLIN, June 26.—The imperial parliament read a second time today the German military contribution bill aimed to meet the non-current cost of $250,000,000 in connection with the increase of the German army.

The future has been changed. It now hits all persons having incomes of $1,250 and upwards on a graduated scale of from 1 to 8 per cent.

The increased armaments of Germany, according to the government's financial estimates will be largely a rich man's burden.

ATLANTA WOMAN CATCHES FIERCE FIVE-FOOT SHARK

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BRUNSWICK, Ga., June 26.—Outside of the battle between the Crange and the Blue armies, the biggest sensation of the camp at St. Simons island yesterday came when Mrs. C. W. Hatcher, of Atlanta, caught a five-foot shark, towed it to the shore and shot and killed it.

The sham battle ended in a draw after a long and futile effort on the part of the infantry, under Major Hunter, to dislodge Major de Saussure's dismounted cavalry from their intrenchments.

NEGROES TO MEET IN BIG AUDITORIUM FESTIVAL

Negroes from all over the south will gather in Atlanta on July 3 and 4 for a big jubilee to be held at the auditorium. The most prominent colored people in the country, including Booker T. Washington and his wife, are expected to be here then.

One of the features of the assembly will be the matinee on the afternoon of the fourth, when half of the auditorium will be reserved for white people. The program on this day will consist largely of old plantation melodies. A chorus of 200 voices will sing and there will be several solos.

Horses Eyes PutOut By Dealers of Chicago To Make Them Docile

CHICAGO, June 26.—That a large number of horses in Chicago deliberately have been made blind to make them more easily managed is the report of agents of the Anti-Cruelty society, whose curiosity was aroused by the docility of young and apparently normal animals. Warrants will be asked today for horse dealers accused of the mutilations.

"These horses have been blinded by men who guarantee to purchasers that they will not shy and need no blinders," said Hugo Krause, superintendent of the society. "A needle has been jabbed through each retina. The wound is scarcely noticeable. Peddlers, in particular desire horses which are quiet, and the blinding of the animals has been put on a commercial basis."

In the South Water street market yesterday fifty horses were found that had been blinded presumably by this method.

GOVERNMENT HIGHWAY IN FIVE COUNTIES ASSURED

Catoosa, Whitfield, Gordon, Cobb and Bartow to Receive Federal Aid

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., June 26.—The government highway, connecting with the pike at Ringgold and extending south through Catoosa, Whitfield and probably Gordon county, with a possibility of a continuance to Cobb county and into Cobb county, is now assured, it being only a matter of a short time before actual construction, under government supervision, will be started.

Wednesday afternoon saw the probability become a certainty by the action taken by the board of county commissioners at the court house here. Congressman Lee had come from Washington especially to attend the meeting, and he was accompanied by James T. Vorshell, highway engineer of the government bureau of roads, the two coming by automobile from Ringgold over the proposed road.

At the meeting Gordon, Bartow and Cobb counties were also represented.

Mr. Lee said instead of the $10,000 he stated at a former meeting here that he thought he could secure, he had been given an appropriation of $25,000 from the government, which fact means that instead of $30,000 there will be $75,000 spent on the road.

Frank C. Rand, Trustee, Criticises Bishops and Declares Money Will Be Accepted

ST. LOUIS, June 26.—"The Vanderbilt University Medical school will accept Carnegie's million-dollar endowment, despite all statements to the contrary."

Such was the declaration of Frank C. Rand, a member of the board of trustees of Vanderbilt, who returned to St. Louis last night from Nashville, Tenn., where the board met to act on the steel magnate's offer.

"As a matter of fact, the board on June 16 voted to take the money and the board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, have nothing to do with it," he said. "The Methodist bishops are not running Vanderbilt university, though they want to."

"Tut, Tut!" Wilson's Strongest Exclusive, But It's SOME "Tut!"

WASHINGTON, June 26.—President Wilson has introduced a new form of denaturized explosive expression into administration circles. Where former President Roosevelt relieved his feelings by snapping out the ejaculation "By Godfrey!" President Wilson is said to seek the same relief in the expression "Tut, Tut!" but it is said to be so mollycoddle that it is not. It is enunciated with emphasis and deep earnestness of feeling.

Robert Emmett Taylor, a 14-year-old buddy at the Washington Country club told the story today. Incidentally, Young Taylor thinks Mr. Wilson the greatest man in the world. He was sitting on the links on the quality of the president's golf form.

"The president struck the ball" said Robert Emmett, "and it rolled right to the edge of a hole. I sneaked over close, for I knew what they usually say when such a thing happens on golf courses. The president looked very peeved. He opened his lips to say something and I pricked up my ears.

"'Tut, Tut!' said the president, "that was all."

CITY COUNCIL CHARTER GOES TO LEGISLATURE

Substitute for Mayor Woodward's New Charter Will Go to People if Passed

The revised city charter which council, during the new charter agitation some months ago, passed as a substitute for the new charter, is now being drawn up for introduction in the legislature.

This revised charter contains a provision requiring it to be submitted to the people. If the people ratify it, it will become effective on January 1, 1914. If the people reject it, it becomes a dead letter.

There are four main features of the revised charter.

First, it provides a sort of initiative, referendum and referendum.

Second, it puts the fire department and the police department under the same board, to be known as the board of public safety.

Third, it creates a board of public works, which shall control the construction department.

Fourth, it abolishes the sanitary tax.

For balance, the revision consists mainly of bringing the present charter up to date, eliminating obsolete features and harmonizing various conflicting features.

It is reported in city hall circles that Representative R. B. Blackburn, of Fulton county, will oppose the initiative, referendum and recall feature of the charter.

Inasmuch as council passed the revised charter in an effort to head off and defeat the new charter being advocated at that time by Mayor Woodward, the mayor no doubt will oppose the charter before the people, if it gets that far.

As to the new charter which the mayor was advocating, council, as will be recalled, threw it in the waste basket and it has been there ever since. This action was taken by council in the face of a mass meeting of several thousand citizens in the auditorium who adopted resolutions indorsing the charter and requesting council to submit it to the people.

Mayor Woodward's plan, now that the new charter fell a victim to council's steam roller, is to put out a candidate for council in every ward in the city who will pledge himself, if elected, to give the city a new and up-to-date charter.

Men Welcome Mother's Friend

A Duty that Every Man Owes to Those who Perpetuate the Race.

It is just as important that men should know of progressive methods in advance of motherhood. The suffering incident to child-bearing can be easily avoided by having at hand a bottle of Mother's Friend.

This is a penetrating, external application that relieves all tension upon the muscles and enables them to expand without painful strain upon the ligaments. Thus there is avoided nervous spells; the tendency to nausea or morning sickness is counteracted, and a bright, happy disposition is preserved that reflects wonderfully upon the charcter and temperament of the little one soon to come. You can obtain a bottle of "Mother's Friend" at any drug store at $1.00. It preserves the mother's health, enables her to make a complete recovery, and thus with renewed strength she will eagerly devote herself to the care and attention which means so much to the welfare of the child. LABOR UNIONS REPLY TO GOVERNOR BROWN

Say His Message Is Unjust and Uncalled for, and Not Warranted by Facts

A subcommittee representing the Atlanta Federation of Trades has written a reply to Governor Brown's attack on organized labor as contained in his message published Wednesday.

TEXT OF REPLY

The reply follows:

The message of Governor Joseph M. Brown to the legislature yesterday (Wednesday, June 24), wherein he took occasion to malign and condemn the labor unions and their members, was a malicious and unwarranted attack upon honorable, law-abiding citizens of the state and deserving of as much consideration as any other class, even though they do happen to be working people. He takes an undue advantage of those he slanders and assaults without provocation by embodying this arraignment in his message to the legislature, knowing that it would be printed by the press of the state and gain widespread publicity, a cheap way of advertising.

"Truly the governor must have regarded this valedictory as special, transcendent, par excellent. One not familiar with the underlying facts and conditions, in reading this perfervid, flamboyant deliverance of the governor, would think that Georgia is trembling upon the verge of a terrible abyss; that law is being ultraruled upon the infernal altar of anarchy; and that only the immaculate patriot, Joseph Mackey Brown, like Leonidas at Tremosylae, was left to drive back the godless and fearless foe.

In any one conversant, however, with the real facts and conditions which were in garbled fashion, made the subject of this utterly demagogic and specious harangue—this uncalled for, and vicious attack upon organized labor—only utter contempt could be excited.

"CAMPAIGN DOCUMENT."

That the governor has issued this message as a campaign document and attempts to array the country voter against the town and city voter, is demonstrably true. A more cruel yet clumsy effort to enlist the prejudice of the rural voter against his brother in toil upon the railroad, factory and workshop has never been exhibited. He attempts to make it appear that unions are exacting a tax from the farmer, which he knew was untrue when he wrote the statement. But imagining that the farmer has no more sense than to believe this, he makes an effort to appeal to them through this tax proposition and to array the farmer against the city workmen, sufficiently vindictive within itself. He goes further and attempts to gain the good will of the manufacturer that opposes the unions probably hoping thereby to secure contributions to further his political aspirations. At least the message has this appearance, and time will make known the true facts.

Organized labor stands for the uplift of humanity and its record is an open book for the inspection of the public in general.

COURT JURISDICTION.

"He proposes that labor go into the courts to adjust their difficulties, and we ask what jurisdiction the courts have over wage disputes and grievances affecting the working conditions? He was fully aware that the courts could do no such thing, and uses this as a subterfuge to blind the public, or at least hopes to do so.

"He makes no mention at all, in connection with the strikes he refers to, that the employers were even in any way responsible for the conflict, and attempts to place the entire responsibility on the unions. It will be remembered that the unions were anxious to arbitrate these differences at all times, but the employers refused to accede to this method of adjustment until public sentiment, through the third party mentioned by Governor Brown, forced them to do so.

"To say that labor unions are a 'trust' is in accord with other misstatements in the message, and direct attention to the ruling of the courts which he requests unions to appeal to.

"For lack of space and time we are prevented from going into details at this time, but will answer at a later date every charge made in this infamous document."

ALL IS READY NOW FOR SLATON INAUGURATION

Ceremonies to Be Held in Hall of House of Representatives Noon Saturday

The report of the joint inaugural committee from the senate and the house to make formal arrangements for the inauguration of Governor-elect John M. Slaton has been completed and will be presented in both branches of the legislature Friday morning in the shape of separate resolutions.

The committee which was appointed Wednesday is composed of Senators Rushin and Allen and Representatives Wheatley, Blackburn, Hardeman, Wohlwender and Pulbright. Senator Rushin is chairman of the senate committee and Mr. Wheatley heads the one from the house.

The committe has decided on a joint session of both houses in the hall of the house of representatives, the ceremonies to commence at noon Saturday.

The report of the committee says in part:

"The inaugural ceremonies shall take place in the hall of representatives at 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, June 28, 1913.

"At 11:45 o'clock the house and senate assemble in joint session in the hall of the house of representatives, the president of the senate presiding.

"The joint committee of the house and senate will repair to the governor's office where they will meet the governor-elect, the retiring governor, justices of the supreme court and court of appeals, state house officers, elect and retiring, ex-governors and federal governors, all of whom will be previously invited to be present at 11:50 a. m., for whom seats will be reserved immediately in front of the speakers' stand."

Who Wants to Pay Thirty Cents for Nite Little Auto?

Automobiles are going begging these days. The time is passed when the old farm house had to be mortgaged to get a two-seated runabout, for now one can own a twenty horse-power car by merely soaking a pair of purple socks with one's "uncle."

At least, such an inference might be deduced from a want add which appears in Thursday's Journal. F. W. Walker, of 214 Lee street, is giving away cars for a mere peccadillo like the price of the add.

It reads: "Found, on East Point road, automobile 29854, Ga. Owner can have same by paying for ad. F. W. Walker, 214 Lee street."

The auto register gives the owner of car 29854, Ga., as Mr. R. Leonard, Talbotton, Ga. Why Mr. Leonard's car happened to be enjoying itself on the solitudinous East Point pike when Walker found it the other afternoon, is a mystery.

Well, it won't cost Mr. Leonard, but 30 cents to capture the naughty little auto that ran away from home.

SECRET VISITS ENTER IN "FIGHT FOR MILLIONS"

Counsel for Those Trying to Break Scott's Will Tells of Lady Lochville's Visits

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 26.—Suggestions of possible highly interesting developments were introduced today in the "fight for the millions," as the public calls the suit over the will of the late Sir John Murray Scott. The will leaves $5,000,000 to Lady Sackville, a relative of a former British minister at Washington.

Frederick Smith, counsel for those who are trying to break the will, mentioned an alleged secret visit to the baronet's house by Lady Sackville. "She was seen," he said, "at the drawer of a desk in Sir John's library, and Major Arbuthnot, a friend of Scott's, will testify that on his arrival to dine with Scott one evening he opened the door of the library and saw Lady Sackville and Miss Sackville just shutting a drawer of the writing desk.

"When Major Arbuthnot later saw Sir John he mentioned that he had seen Lady Sackville in the library. Scott immediately became intensely agitated and broke into a perspiration. Scott had no idea that Lady Sackville was in the house."

The lawyer said that the Sackvilles were known in the Scott household under the nickname of "The Locusts," while in the servants' hall Lady Sackville was referred to as "The Earthquake."

SPARK FROM PIPE LIGHTS NITRATE OF SODA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

JACKSON, Ga., June 26.—Mr. W. D. Martin, who lives near High Falls, was the victim of a peculiar accident a few days ago in which a spark from his pipe played a leading part.

He had been to Jackson for a load of nitrate of soda and was on his way home when the spakrk fell on some straw in the bottom of his wagon, setting fire to the nitrate of soda, easily ignitible, which in turn set fire to the wagon. The wagon was burned up before the fertilizer could be taken out.

At that juncture the mules hitched to the wagon ran away, one of the animals being severely injured.

TO HOLD FRANK TRIAL IN THE OLD CITY HALL

Case Will Be Heard in Courtroom Now Used by Judge Pendleton

The trial of Leo M. Frank on July 28 will be held on the first floor in the old city hall building, at the corner of South Pryor and East Hunter streets, Solicitor Dorsey, Judge L. S. Roan and court attaches formally decided upon this room as the proper place to conduct the trial.

The court room designated is at present occupied by Judge John T. Pendleton, of the motion division of superior court. Judge Pendleton will adjurn his court for the summer on July 12, and the place will be unoccupied when the Frank trial is called.

This court room is the one which was occupied by Superior Court Judge Thomas when he was here conducting criminal court for several weeks last fall.

ANDERSON WILL SUPPORT INDUSTRIAL HOME BILL

President Randolph Anderson, of the senate, has announced that he will support a measure for the establishment of a state industrial home for wayward girls in Georgia. This measure has received the promise of support from leading members of both the house and senate.

"The growth of the towns of Georgia has forced this problem upon our attention," says Mr. Anderson. "It is one of those measures of prevention which we must institute, and that right early."

Representative Crawford Wheatley, of Sumter county, is among those who have strongly indorsed the idea.

BILL SEEKS TO ABOLISH ALL COUNTY CHAINGANGS

Senator Foster Introduces a Prison Reform Bill in the Senate

Chaingang reform, urged by the Men and Religion Forward Movement in Atlanta and the Prison Association of Georgia, was begun in the legislature Thursday through a senate bill introduced by A. H. Foster, of the Twenty-seventh district, providing sweeping changes in the state's penal system.

The bill seeks to do away with what are known as county chaingangs. County chaingangs are recruited from misdemeanor offenders sentenced in the county, whereas felony convicts are sentenced to the penitentiary, or rather the state gangs. The distinction between them is wiped out by the pro*visions of the bill.*

Leaders of the Men and Religion Forward Movement declared Thursday that their recent bulletins had been misinterpreted for they are not in favor of taking the convicts from the roads.

STRIPES ABOLISHED.

The bill sent in by Senator Foster does away with stripes, excepting for prisoners of the lowest grades and attempts to define this lowest grade as habitual criminals.

The measure, however, calls for sweeping changes in Georgia's penal system. It provides:

An inspection of jails and the use of jails only as a place of detention.

Indeterminate sentence at the discretion of the judge for both felony and misdemeanor offenders.

The parole and after-care of prisoners.

One of the interesting features of the proposed reform is in its provisions to take away from the judges of courts of original jurisdiction the right to sentence a man to jail in place of the penitentiary. The bill seeks to make the county jails merely places of detention, where persons accused of crime are confined.

ALL GO TO ROAD GANGS.

It is passes all persons will be sent to the penitenciary, which means to the roads, unless the sentence specifically states that it is to be at Milledgeville.

A somewhat similar bill, sponsored by Senator Tarver, of the Forty-third district, giving judges of courts of original jurisdiction power to suspend sentence in criminal cases under certain conditions, was presented.

Philip Weltner, secretary of the Prison Reform association, declared Thursday that the Foster bill did not mean that the road work by convicts in Georgia would cease, in fact, he asserted, that it meant it would be increased, for under the Foster bill, convicts will be given every incentive, credits, gradings, paroles, etc., to do good work.

The bill will be pushed by the Men and Religion Forward Movement through their famous advertising bulletins.

Bill Requires Bible Reading In Schools

One chapter from the Bible, read each day in the public schools with comment only of the non-sectarian variety, is the program sought by Senator W. J. Bush, according to a bill sponsored by him introduced in the state senate Thursday.

The bill sets forth that "one chapter, at least, from the Bible shall be read, with or without comment, at the opening of each and every public school, comment to be non-sectarian."

Teachers are authorized by the provisions of the bill to do the reading and if it is learned that a teacher fails to do so, it is to be considered proper cause for his or her discharge.

LIEUT. JOHN TOWERS IS ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

ROME, Ga., June 26.—A telegram from Annapolis to Mrs. W. M. Towers, mother of Lieutenant John H. Towers, chief of the navy aviation corps, states that the young officer who fell a quarter of a mile into Chesapeake bay a few days ago is now out of danger and will soon be able to resume his duties.

Lieutenant Towers is very popular in Rome, his family having lived here for many years, and it was from here that he went to the naval academy in 1906. The message states that his physicians are now convinced that there will be no complications from internal injuries as had been feared. They expect their patient to make rapid progress hence forth.

NEW COUNTY MEMBERS' SEATS IN QUESTION

House Authorizes Committee to Investigate Legality of Seating Representatives

A resolution, introduced by Representative H. J. Fullbright, of Burke county, asking for the appointment of a committee of nine to look into the question of seating representatives from two new counties, Bleckley and Wheeler, was adopted in the house Thursday morning without debate.

The resolution recites that the constitution of the state fixes the membership of the house at 184, while the seating of Representative Douglas McArthus, of Wheeler, and Representative Leo H. Browning, of Bleckley, would make the house membership 186. Speaker Burwell will name the committee of nine and its report will be awaited with much interest.

PAGES APPOINTED.

Speaker Burwell took good care of Atlanta boys when he made his appointment of pages in the house. The list of house pages follows: Marshall Jackson, Atlanta; Clark Howell Foreman, Atlanta; Frank Weldon, Jr., Atlanta; Alonzo Nunnally, Atlanta; Bernard Foreman, Tallaferro county, and Marcus Bunn, of Polk.

At 11 o'clock the senate came to the house for the joint session to consolidate the returns of the last election, and Speaker Burwell yielded the gavel to the president of the senate, J. Randolph Anderson.

The chair appointed the following gentlemen on the committee to consolidate the returns: Senators DuBose, Hbill and Olliff, Representatives Sheppard, Wisdom, Garlington, Heath, Anderson, of Bank, Wright and Ragsdale.

HOUSE BILLS INTRODUCED.

By Mr. Fullbright of Burke—A resolution asking that a committee of nine be appointed by the speaker to inquire into the legality of the election of ten members of the house.

By Mr. Cook of Chattahoochee—A bill to create a board of commissioners of roads and revenues in Chattahoochee county.

By Mr. Brinson of Jenkins—A bill to prohibit county authorities from paying insolvent costs on bills of county officials from the general fund.

By Mr. Farris of Walker—A bill to incorporate the town of Chickamauga.

The figures compiled by the committee show that Philip Cook, the genial secretary of state, received at the state election the largest number of votes, while General William A. Wright was only 59 votes behind him.

A. F. Castleberry, if was learned by the committee's report, ran against Governor-elect Slaton at the regular election and received 434 votes.

HERE IS THE VOTE.

The joint session formally proclaimed the following state officers as elected, and the house and senate adjourned until Friday morning at 10 o'clock:

Governor, John M. Slaton, 54,437 votes.

Secretary of state, Philip Cook, 57,570 votes.

Comptroller general, William A. Wright, 57,511 votes.

Treasurer, William J. Speer, 57,436 votes.

Attorney general, Thomas Swift Felder, 57,398 votes.

Commissioner of agriculture, James D. Price, 57,067 votes.

Commissioner of labor, H. M. Stanley, 57,269 votes.

Commissioner of schools, M. L. Brittain, 57,352 votes.

Railroad commissioner, T. E. Patterson, 58,398 votes.

Pension commissioner, J. W. Lindsay, 57,290 votes.

THESE LITTLE FOLKS WANT A HOME

Nine children shown above, ranging in ages from two to twelve, are orphans who want a home. A childless home will be made a real home by adopting one of them, a home with children already in it will be made the better by another. The children in picture may be found by application to the Georgia Children's Home society, 401 Foote & Davies building. They are representative of the different ages, sizes and types of little boys and girls cared for by the society who are anxious for mothers and fathers to love them and help them to grow up to be good men and women.

CHILDREN OF CAPTAIN POOLE ILL WEDNESDAY

Three little children of Captain Lazar Poole, of the local police department, were taken with a peculiar form of ptomaine poisoning Wednesday afternoon, occasioned, it is believed, by some vegetables they ate at dinner.

Wallace, aged twelve years; Douglas, aged eight years, and Elsie, aged four years, were the three little sufferers. When the children became ill a hurry call was sent to the Grady hospital from the Poole home, 25 Glenwood avenue. Prompt action by the hospital physicians saved the lives of the trio, and they will suffer no serious consequences from the attack.

HUB TALLEY AND HIS WITNESSES ARE HELD

Hub Talley, one of Atlanta's notorious police characters, was sentenced to twenty-nine days in the stockade by Recorder Broyles Wednesday afternoon and bound over to higher courts on $5,000 bond charged with assault with intent to murder.

Talley pleaded guilty to the charge of shooting George Blackstock on Peters street a month ago, claiming self-defense. The stockade sentence was imposed for discharging firearms in the city limits and for carrying concealed weapons.

Talley filed notice of appeal following the trial, but failing to make $500 bond is now held in the county jail.

REPAIRS TO PEACHTREE SOON TO BE STARTED

Chairman Shelby Smith, of the county commissioners, is authority for the statement that work toward the improvement of the road on Peachtree, from Fifteenth street to Buckhead, will be started within two weeks. He gives as his reason for the delay on the work of improving this popular roadway is that regrading Marietta street has consumed so much of the force at the commission's hand that it was impossible to start the Peachtree street improvement sooner.

DALLAS UNOPPOSED FOR COUNCIL FROM SEVENTH

In reference to a recent publication announcing the candidacy of four gentlemen for the two vacant offices in the seventh ward, S. L. Dallas, who is a candidate for councilman from that ward, says:

"I am a candidate for councilman, and the four gentlemen mentioned are for the aldermanic board.

"The article referred to may give the mistaken impression that I have opposition, but such is not the case, as I am running for a different office."

THEATERS

[illegible]—Vaudeville.
GRAND—"Quo Vadis," in pictures.
LYRIC—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

"Quo Vadis," the wonder of modern photo plays, produced after eighteen months of tremendous work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars in many ways by the famous Cines society in Rome, Italy, continues in its second week at the Grand playing at matinee and night exhibitions to many people. The attendance record of the first week will be broken during the second week, and there will be thousands of people here who can be satisfied with the knowledge that they have seen the greatest thing in straight motion pictures that ever has been attempted. The pictures are creating a sensation in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia and here in Atlanta for two weeks the Grand has played to a multitude.

This wonderful picture is both an education and an entertainment. There are three acts, with eight scenes, and during the two and a quarter hours of entertainment nothing detracts the attention of the theater patrons from the shet.

There will be matinee and night exhibitions on each day the rest of the week, and seats for any performance can be secured in advance.

Every act on the bill at the Forsyth this week is entitled to a good share of the success the program has registered. There is no old material, no worn ideas—nothing at all that should not be found in a well regulated, modern combination of genuine Keith vaudeville. Gertrude Vanderbilt and George Moore head the bill in the very best singing and dancing act that has been offered on a local stage. Miss Vanderbilt is one of those magnetic little persons who sheds sunshine the moment she makes her entrance, and George Moore is the sort of comedian everybody likes. Their dances are clever, their songs are new, and they have entertaining ideas that are original and that suit the fancy of the Forsyth patrons.

"Ideal," who is really a champion lady swimmer and diver, is another of the big features of the bill. "Ideal's" act is full of interest. It is unusual and pleasing. The swimmer shows all sorts of fancy stunts in the great tank that has been sunk in the Forsyth stage, and her diving ideas are well executed.

The Six Musical Cuttys present a musical novelty that is another big hit, and as a whole the complete bill is the sort that keeps the Forsyth crowded to its doors.

Edward Abeles, the famous star actor who has appeared in "Officer 666" and other New York successes, will head the coming week's bill, and another star act or that bill will be Billy McDermott, a tramp comedian, who is said to be a wonder in comedy.

Three clever comedians, Lew Miller, Harry Loder and Pearl Carter, furnish no end of fun in this week's tabloid, "The Merry Whirl" which is proving one of the most popular attractions of the season at the Lyric. These three capable fun-makers seldom have held the stage of a local theater at one time, and as the success of a musical comedy depends a great deal upon its comedians, this department is in such clever hands as to make the performance most enjoyable. Miss Marjory Lake, who has the principal role of Fifi from Gay Paree, is not only a clever comedienne but has one of the most wonderful baritone voices that has been heard on an Atlanta stage.

There is also a dash and vim about the performance that is pleasing. The musical numbers are rendered well, the work of the chorus is good, and the scenic effects are quite in keeping with the balance of the show. The second act closes with an illuminated swing son, "The Merry Whirl" is an attraction well worth while.

CAMPAIGN TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS OF CONVICTS

Men and Religion Forward Movement and Prison Workers Start Campaign

The appearance of the Men and Religion Forward Movement's "chaingang bulletin" simultaneously with the gathering in Atlanta if the members of the state legislature, heralds the opening of a campaign for the improvements of conditions in the state convict camps.

The Men and Religion movemnet in this connection is going to work in conjunction with the Prison association of Georgia. The leading spirits of the two organizations, Marion Jackson, John J. Eagan, Philip Weltner, are the same.

The campaign, it is said, will be modelled somewhat after the campaign of publicity, which resulted in the famous order of Chief of Police J. L. Beavers, closing the restricted district.

The bulletins will be used as a method of swaying the members of the legislature towards the inauguration of the reforms long advocaed by the Prison association, which are largely an improvement of sanitary conditions in the camps, which are characterized as horrible; the abolition of stripes and chains; indeterminate sentences; segregation of the "old timers" and the first offenders, and other similar measures.

Macon Out for 1914 Meeting of Baracas And the Philatheas

Macon, Ga., is going after the 1914 convention of the Baracas and Philathea organizations like a kid after candy. These two church societies are holding their 1913 convention in Nashville and the Macon boosters are out in full force.

Plastered all over Nashville, it is said, are streamers advertising Macon as the desirable city for next year's convention. "Macon for 1914!" they are headed.

The streamers go on to say that Macon is the easiest reached city in the south, having fifteen railroads and eighty-nine passenger trains daily. The accommodations, declare the posters, include sixteen good hotels and numerous boarding houses.

"Our latch string hangs on the outside," concludes the advertisement.

GETTYSBURG FACES BIG PROBLEM OF FEEDING

Gen. Dan Sickles Will Be Furnished Wheeling Chair and Ambulance

(By Associated Press.)

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 26.—That Gettysburg has a great task before her in feeding and housing the thousands of visitors who will come for the reunion of the "blue" and the "gray" next week, is manifest today. Every train arriving carries hundreds of persons. Numerous telegrams are being received by the hotels asking for accommodations.

A message was received today from General Daniel V. Sickles, saying that he would arrive on Sunday and asking that he be furnished an ambulance and a wheeling chair. The "commond" of the general, who lost a leg in the great battle, will be granted.

Residents of Gettysburg are determined to make the action commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the great battle a success. Scores of private homes will be thrown open as temporary boarding houses.

The annual encampment of the department of Pennsylvania, of the Grand Army of the Reppublic, began here today with every one of the 600 posts in the state represented.

Confederate Flags Will Be Allowed on Field

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 26.—S. A. Cunningham, Tennessee's commissioner for the Gettysburg reunion, has received a telegram from Secretary Lewis E. Beitler of the Gettysburg commission at Harrisburg, in which the latter says reports that only the United States flags will be permitted at the reunion are utterly unauthorized. He says:

"Pennsylvania, though Governor Tener last January distinctly stated her position and it is the same today as it was then."

The statement was in response to inquiry as to whether or not Confederate battle flags were to be barred.

Both Confederate and G. A. R. Vets Fare Badly in Congress

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Both Confederate and Union veterans fared badly at the hands of the house today. An attempt to call up a resolution by Representative Fowler, of Illinois, providing $4,000 for traveling expenses of District of Columbia veterans of two armies at the Gettysburg reunion was defeated by the objection of Representative Gallaway, of Texas.

Representative Howard, of Georgia, then asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution authorizing the secretary of war to provide tents and blankets for Confederate veterans' reunion at Brunwick, Ga. Representative Fowler objected.

Minority Leader Mann, in a plea for a "reunited country," endeavored to reconcile the objectors and secure the passage of both bills, but failed.

Official Program for Reunion Is Announced

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 26.—The official program of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg was completed today. Principal ceremonies as apportioned to the several days were:

Veterans day, July 1.

Colonel J. M. Schoonmaker, chairman of commission, presiding; opening prayer by Rev. George Edwards Lovejoy, chaplain in chief, G. A. R.; address by Secretary of War Garrison; address of welcome by Governor Tener; address by Alfred B. Beers, commander-in-chief, G. A. R.; address by General Bennett H. Young, commander-in-chief, U. C. V.; prayer by Rev. H. M. Hamill chaplain general, U. C. V.

Military day, Wednesday, July 2. Colonel Andrew Cowan, Louisville, presiding; address by Maj. General Frederick H. Brooke, of Pennsylvania, (representative of northern forces in the battle); address by Sergeant John C. Scarbrough, of North Caorlina (representative of southern forces in battle); reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg cemetery dedication speech by Mr. Barry Bulkley; address by General John C. Black.

Justice Gerard sailed from New York yesterday without knowing he had been transferred on the president's list from Madrid to Berlin. After a short trip abroad, however, he is expected to return to Washington, before finally taking up residence in Berlin.

ONE THOUSAND MINERS AT CABIN CREEK STRIKE

(By Associated Press.)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 26.—Reports from Cabin Creek today announce that about 1,000 miners went on strike this morning. No disorders have been reported and the men who refused to quit work are not being molested.

Runners sent out by officials of the United Mine Workers late yesterday after it was learned that strike agitators were attempting to call a strike, were unable to turn the tide and a majority of the miners at Acme and Kayford, two of the largest mines of the Cabin Creek Consolidated Coal company, refused to return today.

The strike has not extended to Paint Creek. At the request of the New River operators Governor Hatfield is holding conferences today with officials of the Mine Workers' union relative to the situation in that field.

A call for a general strike in the New River field went out last night, to be effective July 1. The operators said that such action be postponed for a few days in the hope that a settlement may be reached.

$100,000,000 VALUE OF J. P. MORGAN'S ESTATE

Estimate by the Comptroller's Counsel—Inheritance Tax of $4,000,000 Assessed

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 26.—The whole of the J. P. Morgan estate has a value of about $100,000000, according to an unofficial report here credited to Thomas E. Rush, counsel to State Comptroller Sohmer, who has been in Europe the past month examining the books of the Morgan houses in London and Paris, to determine the value of the late financier's holdings. The European assets he found to approximate $15,000,000.

If the $100,000,000 estimate for the whole estate is correct, it is said this will be the biggest estate to pay an inheritance tax in America. New York state will be enriched nearly $4,000,000, it is estimated, by a tax of four per cent on a greater part of the estate.

DEMURRAGE RULE TEST IS EVADED BY PAYMENT

Issue as to Railroad Commission's Authority Not Met in First Contest

Henceforth the Georgia railroad commission will insist upon the application of its rule covering reciprocal demurrage. In storage rule No. 9, adopted in 1905, the commission prescribed a penalty of $1 upon the railroads for every day they delayed in placing a car of freight. A like penalty is assessed against shippers who fail promptly to remove freight from cars.

Under the law a violation of a rule of the railroad commission subjects the offending railroad to a fine of $5,000.

The railroads have denied the legality of the reciprocal demurrage rule and have declined to pay claims. However, they have never tested it in the courts, and not until the past few days has the commission been called upto to enforce the rule.

The complaint which proved to be the test case was filed with the commission by the Atlanta freight bureau and concerned a claim of $5 demurrage made by V. H. Kriegshaber & Son. of Atlanta, against the Southern railway, it being contended by the former that a carload of sewer pipe consigned to them was switched from Atlanta to Rome.

Replying to a letter from Manager Harry T. Moore, of the Atlanta freight bureau, W. D. Post, agent for the Southern railway in Atlanta, wrote: "Under advice of the special committee of counsel no claims have been paid on account of delay to cars handled in switching service, as the roads have never recognized the authority of the railroad commission of Georgia to impose a penalty upon cars handled in switching service."

Manager Moore took the matter up with Chairman C. M. Candler of the railroad commission, who obtained an opinion from Special Attorney J. K. Hines to the effect that the commission was within its authority in adopting the reciprocal demurrage rule.

The following the demand upon the Southern that it pay the claim of V. H. Kriegshaber & Son and stated that if payment was not made suit would be entered in court. The road replied that irrespective of the legal merits of the claim it would pay the claim.

Whereupon Chairman Candler wrote the road that the commission would expect similar treatment of all such claims in the future.

BUDGET PLANS WOULD GIVE ALL POWER TO FEW

Congressman Hardwick Explains Georgia Delegation's Opposition to Plan

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—An echo of the overthrow of the Democratic leadership in the house caucus yesterday afternoon was heard on the floor this morning when Congressman Hardwick explained the opposition to the creation of a budget committee as proposed by Leader Underwood.

The Underwood proposal was tabled in the caucus and the local papers today attributed the leader's defeat to the desire of certain Democrats to plunder the treasury through "pork barrel" appropriation measures.

Most of the Georgia congressmen were opposed to the creation of a budget committee, as proposed by the leader, though they are in entire sympathy with the plan for curtailing the expenditures of the government and affecting a more economical scheme of administration.

The opposition to the creation of a budget committee sprang not from a desire for "pork," but from objection to the concentration of power in the hands of a few self-selected leaders, according to Congressman Hardwick.

The creation of a budget committee was recommended by a special committee of five members and Mr. Hardwick developed to day that the plan as recommended proposed to place four of these five men on the budget committee, which was to have great powers.

He pointed out also that the plan if adopted would have divested individual members of practically all their rights in the matter of appropriating the public money.

The expenditure of a billion dollars annually would have been left entirely in the hands of a few men all of whom now wield an unfair proposition of power through the chairmanship which they hold, it would have made Leader Underwood more powerful than was Speaker Cannon in his palmiest days and would have left not only the management of the house but the affair sof the entire government in the hands of a *few men with powers far more auto*cratic than those enjoyed by the Cannon rules committee. "In the good old days."

Mr. Hardwick declared in favor of a plan to check the extravagant use of the public money and he expressed a belief that the democratic membership would agree to the creation of a budget committee, but he insisted that this committee should be not self-selected and should be responsible to the entir membership of th house.

He declared that the members of such a committee should be selected not by the ways and means committee, but by the entire membership of th house, and that the house should be at all times empowered to control the personnel of the committee's membership.

The idea of increasing the power of committee chairmen and bestowing more authority on the floor leader was, he thought, contrary to the policy of the Democratic party, which has ever sought to democratize the government.

(By Associated Press.)

DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 26.—Governor Pesquiera telegraphed from Hermosillo to his junta here that he would leave the capital today to take an aeroplane flight with Didier Masson, the French aviator, over the federal lines at Santa Rosa and San Leandro.

The issue will be a lien on property within the sphere of rebel influence.

CONGRESSMAN ADAMSON WOULD PROTECT FARMERS

Would Nip in Bud Proposition of Roads to Revise Cotton Baling Methods

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—At one of the immediate results of the hearings before the interstate commerce commission of the house with reference to the rules adopted by steamship companies concerning consignment of baled cotton, Congressman Adamson introduced today a bill to protect the ginners and cotton farmers against loss of shipments.

He proposes to amend the Harter act by requiring steamship companies to specify the character and extent of the defector damage and identify the articles thus damaged. Under the practice of the steamship companies thus making an indefinite entry of "bad conditions" or "bad condition" or "bad order" the whole bill of lading is tainted and banks will not negotiate it. The shipment cannot be financed, and, of course, buyers canot pay the farmers as much for their cotto.

The bill also proposes to require separate bills of lading where some of the bales are damaged so that all the good bales will be covered by one bill of lading and all the bad ones by another bill of lading, with an exact description of how bad each bale is, then both bills can be financed. The passage of this measure wil lprove a great boon to the cotton farmers of the south.

The steamship companies are also proposing to penalize every old-fashioned bale of cotton because of excessive size or length. The Adamson bill prohibits this.

T. H. Kimbrough, of Harris county, a member of the Georgia legislature, representing the farmers and ginners of Georgia, recently appeared before th committee and made a strong showing in support of legislation along these lines.

WILL PROBE CHARGES OF "FAKE" CONGRESSMEN

New York Attorney May Turn Up Faker Indicated in Lovett Charges

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Robert S. Lovett's charge that men impersonating members of congress have been making demands upon Wall street financiers, has stirred congressional circles. Lovett made such a charge before the senate lobby investigating committee last night, saying that men impersonating representatives had claimed to be able to "grease the wheels in Washington" for the Union Pacific merger dissolution.

While the lobby committee was in recess today plans for following the trail Lovett disclosed were being taken up by members.

Lewis Cass Ledyard, a New York attorney, who encouraged such a "congressman" over the telephone for two weeks and discovered that he was not a congressman, probably will be summoned. Lovett told the commission that Ledyard had strong circumstantial evidence as to who the man was. It is probable that Otto Kahn, the banker; Maxwell Evarts, general counsel for the Southern Pacific, and other Wall street men will be asked to testify.

Lovett's testimony dealt with alleged efforts to force the railroad to employ Edwin Lauterbach, a New York attorney, who was claimed to have enough influence with members of congress to prevent agitation against the dissolution plan and prevent reopening of the money trust inquiry.

Hearings of the senate "lobby" committee reopened last night to allow Robert S. Lovett, of the Union Pacific railroad, to testify, will be suspended again until the Democratic senate caucus has finished its work on the tariff bill.

Lauterbach arrived here early today and arranged with Chairman Overman to be heard before the senate lobby committee at 8 o'clock tonight. Lauterbach declared he was prepared to deny Lovett's charges generally, but would testify that he had talked with Otto H. Kahn and would explain his conversation.

Judge Bateman, it is said, will contest the case vigorously.

FINAL REVISION MADE ON CURRENCY MEASURE

Original Provision of Replacing National Bank Notes by Reserve Notes Put Back

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Final revision of the administration currency bill was made today by Representative Glass preparatory to its introduction in the house. The original provision for the retirement of the present national bank notes and their replacement by the new federal reserve notes, in addition to the $500,000,000 of reserve notes authorized by the bill, was replaced.

The provision allowing county banks to deposit a part of their reserves was revised and the federal regional banks weee given the authority to fix the rate of discount, subject to the approval of the federal reserve board.

Officials engaged in the preparation of the new currency reform bill are convinced that Americans have more varied ideas upon the money question than upon any other before congress. Floods of letters have come to house and senate currency committees and to executive departments, since the general scope of the bill became known. The writers propose various ways to aid the nation's stock of money, and to make it easier for the public to get hold of it.

A representative of the "People's Power League," recently proposed to a senator that the treasury should issue money directly to citizens upon the value of land or property an individual might own. Another proposition was that building and loans associations should be taken in under the new currency plan and have the same right as national and state banks, to secure the proposed new currency.

Many suggestions have been made for the establishment of some sort of farm land values upon which the government could advance money. One scheme offered calls for a direct issue of currency, under proper safeguards, upon farm land values. Loans by the government to farmers at 4 per cent, upon their land, was proposed by another man, who suggested the government should get the necessary money for that by issuing bonds.

Several currency "experts" have recommended that the government make a straightout issue of "fiat money," secured by the general credit of the government.

GOV. BROWN OPPOSES "ON TO SEA" PLAN IN HIS W. & A. MESSAGE

Extend Road Rather to Tennessee River, at Far Less Expense and Secure Shipping Rates, He Recommends

ASKS COMMITTEE TO TAKE UP PROPOSITION

Atlanta Plaza Also Recommended—Would Retain Present Terminal Sites at Both Ends of Road

In his second message sent to the 1913-14 general assembly of the state of Georgia, Governor Joseph M. Brown Thursday morning deals exclusively with the disposition of the lease of the Western and Atlantic railroad, recommending that its line be extended to the Tennessee river rather than to the sea, and that the present legislature authorize the governor to name a commission of three or five citizens from the state at large to bring the matter to a consummation.

The governor goes on record as being unalterably opposed to the sale of the property, characterizing it as the most ruinous policy ever advocated, and also refers to the road as a means of rate control and declares that it should be kept for that reason among many others.

The message declares the proposition of extending the road to the sea is visionary and would cost in the neighborhood of $20,000,000, while to extend it merely to the Tennessee river would entail a cost of not more than $2,000,000 and at the same time secure water rates when the shipping in Chattanooga, Tenn., becomes a reality. He is against a long lease of ninety-nine years, even with an increasing scale of rental, but suggests that the property be leased for a period of thirty years, expressing the belief that the lessees would be inclined to double the present rental during that time in order to compete successfully with other corporations.

FAVORS PLAZA PLAN.

The matter of terminals is also taken up, and a direct appeal is made to the general assembly to retain the present terminal sites in both Chattanooga and Atlanta. The governor makes a direct reference to the suggestion of moving the station from the Forsyth street bridge as being an unwise move. Instead, he recommends that a plaza be extended from Pryor to Forsyth streets and that a modern terminal be built on the present site of the Union passenger station.

The message in full follows:

To the General Assembly:

There is no subject of more weighty interest to the people of Georgia than that of the future disposition of the Western and Atlantic railroad. It is not to be considered that the state will seriously entertain a proposition for the sale of this, its most important piece of property. It is most important not only as to its value as an asset, but also in its power for securing and maintaining competition in commercial lines for the people of the entire state.

A large portion of the people, while generally holding in mind the notable competitive influence of this railroad to the state, have not grasped the fact that it is in some respects the most potent of all factors in controlling reasonable rates of freight from other states into Georgia. In fact, in its potency as a rate-fixing and competition-securer, our fathers, in constructing it, builded wiser than they knew.

Running from Atlanta, which is unquestionably the south's chief distributing center of mercantile products, to the Tennessee river at Chattanooga, in the state of Tennessee, the trend of its line is so short that its rates, added to the western rates from ohio and Mississippi river points, will govern the rates which otherwise might be excessive and, in fact, might maintain arbitrary discriminations against our people. The United States government has already opened the Mussle Shoals canal for navigation, and, within certainly a few years, will have opened the only other serious barrier, viz., Colbert shoals below Decatur. When the latter work is done steamboats can run every day in the year from St. Louis and other Mississippi and Ohio river points to Chattanooga. These river rates will inevitably cause the general rates from the west to Atlanta to be reduced, and the competition between the transportation lines running from the eastern and western markets for the trade of interior Georgia is so acute this will force down the eastern rates to interior points in Georgia.

Inasmuch as it has been for upwards of thirty years a cardinal rule in rate making that the rates from Baltimore to Atlanta shall not be more than the rates from Cincinnati, Louisville, or other ohio river points to Atlanta, and as the western rates from ohio, Mississippi and other Georgia points are made almost the same as to Atlanta, the Western and Atlantic railroad will always be able to prevent unreasonably high rates from being exacted out of the Georgia people by the interstate railroads, for the interstate commerce commission allows the rates materially increased.

ROAD IS VISIONARY.

Much has been said for years past on the subject of extending the Western and Atlantic railroad to the sea, for the purpose of controlling cheap rates into Georgia or for securing competition for the people of Georgia.

My judgment, however, is that the fixed policy of the state as to her finances makes this a visionary scheme. In the first place, the extension of the road from Atlanta to the sea would cost, when we include proper terminals, etc., undoubtedly more than fifteen millions of dollars. In fact, a report made to your honorable bodies, found on page 529, house journal, 1909, estimated that the cost of the extension would be $71,650 per mile, making the total cost, if it were about 275 miles long, almost $20,000,000. If however, the extension is to Savannah, Darien, Brunswick and St. Marys, the main line extension would be at least 125 miles more at a cost of upwards of $8,000,000. It is being understood that terminals, rolling stock and other extra items are probably charged in the original estimate per mile. Every dollar of this amount would have to be borrowed.

But, as the constitution of the state forbids any increase of the public debt, it would first be necessary to amend the constitution so as to saddle this enormous debt upon the people. At 4 per cent the interest account on $20,000,000 would be $800,000 annually. Inasmuch as the rates on through freight both ways between Atlanta and the Georgia ports, are on a large proportion of the business quite thin, it is not at all likely that the extended part of the road from Atlanta to the sea could be leased for more than, if really as much, as $800,000 per annum. This would only pay the interest on the vast debt, leaving nothing which could be set apart as a sinking fund.

But there is another very practical barrier in the way of this plan. I have been said time and again, by the advocates of the extension of the Western and Atlantic railroad to the sea that the Atlantic ocean can not be syndicated; yet it is a proven fact that the steamship lines of the Atlantic ocean can be and are syndicated. Hence, if the state, by adding enormously to her indebtedness, should extend her road to the sea, she would have no assurance that she would get business for it when it reached a Georgia port. Of course the state operated the road herself, she could not afford to spend millions of dollars building steamships of her own to run to New York, Philadelphia, Boston, etc., with the very great wharfage expense in those cities, and, certainly, she could not secure enough traffic to maintain the road from tramp ships which might come in once a week or once a month.

LOSS WOULD BE GREAT.

Therefore, whether the state would or would not undertake to run the road herself, it is certain that she would be a very great loser, expressing it moderately, by spending many millions of dollars in extending the Western and Atlantic railroad to the sea. And I will add that if she leased it, she could not do so to advantage if she required the lessees to receive less local rates on this road than were allowed by the railroad commission on competing lines. Therefore, I am not in favor of fixing rates within her own borders, she can furnish exactly the same rates for the roads now built as she would be able to furnish her own road after she built it.

If the United States government does not assume control over intra-state rates (and it is doubtful whether that government could fix the rates by Georgia on a railroad owned entirely by the state) and if Georgia is really willing to increase her public debt and spend as much as three millions of dollars in making any kind of an extension of the Western and Atlantic railroad, she could put herself absolutely in possession of the power to force competition which would forever protect her people, if she and Tennessee, by agreement ,would change the boundary line between the two staces along a portion of the northern border of Dade county.

At Shell Mound, in Tennessee, the Tennessee river runs within less than a mile of Nickajack cave, in Georgia. If the two states would agree that the Georgia boundary line be deflected to the Tennessee river at or near Shell Mound and, after allowing Georgia a frontage of about a mile on the river, the low water rates to Shell Mound, and, also, to Chattanooga on the east or at some other locality, deflect the line inward so as to give to Tennessee an adequate portion of Dade county to compensate for the portion added to Dade county by the state of Tennessee, Georgia would, of course, have a landing on the Tennessee river. Then if she would tunnel Lookout, Sand and Raccoon mountains and extend a line to the Tennessee river near Kingold or Graysville, Ga., this would enable her railroad commission at all times to hold down the rates from the Tennessee river to Atlanta, to which would be added the low water rates to Shell Mound and in this way make the state absolutely independent of railroad rates, inasmuch as a reduction in the rates to Atlanta would bring a reduction to all other cities in the state.

This extension, I am told, would call for five or six miles of tunnels, costing about $250,000 per mile and possibly upwards of thirty miles of additional railroad costing from $20,000 to $25,000 per mile, making a total for these two items of, say, $1,000,000. Therefore, it would appear that $3,000,000 ought to cover the total cost of the suggested extension.

TENNESSEE'S ATTITUDE.

Now, it may be said that Tennessee would not consent to such an arrangement. I am free to admit that I have no assurance that she will, but from an experience of upwards of twenty years in handling railroad rates, I will assert that if Georgia would bind herself to build the extension indicated, Tennessee could do no better than to wisely act than to make exactly the arrangement I have indicated, because the reduction of rates from the Georgia landing on the Tennessee river to Atlanta would assuredly result in the reduction of the rates from Chattanooga to Atlanta, inasmuch as the other railroad lines leading from Chattanooga to Atlanta would not tolerate the proposition that this Georgia port should have any lower rates than Chattanooga. And the benefit to Tennessee would not stop at Chattanooga, because the lines leading from Knoxville to interior Georgia points would be forced to reduce the rates from Knoxville to interior Georgia points to prevent Chattanooga from securing the trade which properly belongs to Knoxville.

All railroad officials and all the commercial men handling business from Tennessee points to Georgia points need no argument to convince them that I have stated the case correctly. It is readily admitted that the Georgia port I have referred to could not break down the trade of Chattanooga. Although all the boats coming up to Chattanooga would stop at or pass the Georgia port, this port would not handle probably one-tenth of the business from the river and none from the rail lines entering Chattanooga, and none of the local business of Chattanooga, but it would fix the rates upon which all the other traffic from Chattanooga and Knoxville would move into Georgia.

Furthermore, just across the state line at the Georgia points are coal and iron. Tennessee city could be built on the river from which business would reach the Western & Atlantic railroad by mere sidetracks, thus receiving the same rates into Georgia as those made from the Georgia port.

Hence, the exchange of territory which I have suggested would work out results of inestimable benefit to both states, if the Western & Atlantic railroad were extended to the new landing on the Tennessee river.

The very few Tennessee people who, by the above indicated arrangement, would be annexed to Georgia, would come into a great and glorious state, and the very few Georgia people who would be annexed to Tennessee would also become citizens of one of the noblest states in the American sisterhood.

COST OF EXTENSION $2,000,000.

Now, as I have indicated, the expenses of extension to the Tennessee river would cost probably only about $2,000,000, which is less than the amount estimated for this alone, at coast cities, for the proposed $20,000,000 extension of the road to the sea; and the reduction of rates which would follow from the west to interior points in Georgia would force down the rates from Baltimore and other eastern cities, the rates from all the western cities being made the same as, or with fixed differentials above the Baltimore rates, and the rates from Philadelphia, New York, Boston, etc., being made but a few cents per hundred pounds higher than the rates from Baltimore.

Therefore, while the extension of the Western & Atlantic railroad to the sea would result in an enormous increase of the state's debt, with no assurance of securing competitive traffic from syndicated lines of steamships, the rates from the Georgia port on the Tennessee river to Atlanta would inevitably reduce the rates to Georgia cities from Chattanooga, Knoxville, and all other points touched by the Tennessee, ohio and Mississippi rivers.

In the consideration of this subject, keep ever in mind that when water competition reduces the rates from one western center to Georgia cities, the railroad lines reduce the rates correspondingly from all other western centers to the same cities so as to protect each in the power to hold its proper proportion of the general business.

There is another alternative method for practically putting the Tennessee river traffic at a landing place in Georgia. This can be done if Chickamauga creek is widened, deepened and straightened from its mouth near Boyce station to a point in Catoosa county, so as to allow boats from St. Louis and other western ports to come up the canal and cross the Georgia-Tennessee boundary line. The canal thus made would not be more than twelve miles long and should not cost $1,000,000.

I will ask you to bear in mind that I am not recommending that the state increase her debt by making an extension of her railroad from either end, but I am indicating that if she decides to adopt this policy she will secure immensely greater benefits for her people by spending, at most, three millions of dollars in extending it to the banks of the Tennessee river in her own borders than by spending some twenty millions extending it to the sea.

I will here observe that my judgment is clear that the state of Georgia should not seriously entertain the thought of curtailing the terminal facilities of the Western and Atlantic railroad in either Chattanooga or Atlanta. Propositions have been made within the past few years for practically abandoning the terminals in the city of Chattanooga, and in merely a less degree, the same subject has been mooted as to the Atlanta terminals.

QUESTION OF TERMINALS.

As to Chattanooga, I will state that, while this proposition is being advocated by some of our own people, the Southern railway, which is the most pronounced competitor of the Western and Atlantic railroad, has been spending large sums of money in extending its line into the heart of Chattanooga, and it has already secured property within a few hundred feet of that which it is proposed that the Western and Atlantic railroad shall abandon for transportation uses in the center of that city.

Although the state of Georgia has an absolute advantage over the competitors in Chattanooga, it is seriously proposed that she shall abdicate that advantage and allow her competitors to succeed to it. The plan advocated is to ground-rent a large portion of the track space in the center of Chattanooga, and enticing figures are shown as a reason why the state should do this.

Now, if the state proposes to go into the real estate renting business and for that purpose is willing to impair her power for conducting a great transportation line, she can probably look with favor upon the proposed plan to dismantle the road.

It is undoubtedly true that one mile of the road in Chattanooga is the means of securing more revenue than probably thirty or forty miles seven along the center of its line. The strength of the road lies in its superior facilities for receiving and distributing commerce. If the state withdraws from the localities where the commerce is found and properly handled, she necessarily reduces the amount of commerce to handle. Hence, if Georgia wishes to own a great and well equipped railroad she will hold on to all of the terminal facilities she has at either end of it.

In this connection, I will state that the plan has been proposed of withdrawing the passenger terminals in Atlanta from the Union station, which has been the terminal for upward of seventy years, to the Forsyth street bridge. But, by one who will look at the terminal facilities at the present location at the Forsyth street bridge it will be seen that, if we allow needed space for freight tracks, the latter area is entirely too narrow, and that in almost every respect the change would work to the serious detriment of the Western and Atlantic railroad.

I will remark that, as to the freight terminals, the Central of Georgia railway, the Southern railway and the Georgia railroad and allied companies have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in buying lands and extending their terminals into the very heart of Atlanta.

For many years the Western & Atlantic railroad had almost a monopoly of the business in the center of the city, since the owners of the above named roads went to the enormous expenditure referred to for the purpose of competing with the Western & Atlantic.

KEEP PRESENT TERMINALS.

Therefore, the proposition that the state of Georgia remove the present passenger and freight terminals in Atlanta and Chattanooga from their points of vantage really seems a strange one. For the reasons above given, I am firmly convinced that the state should entertain no thought of dismantling her property and thereby putting herself at a disadvantage as compared with her transportation competitors.

In this connection, I will call your attention to the proposition which has been mooted to build a plaza over the railroad tracks, in Atlanta, extending from the fourth street bridge to the Washington street viaduct, with a combined modern terminal station, on the site of the present Union passenger station. This plan, if executed, would likely very greatly enhance valuations in the center of the city, hence should be encouraged by the state. And, unless this plaza plan is carried out, the state will disastrously damage her passenger terminals in Atlanta if she permits the city of Atlanta to build bridges over the Western & Atlantic railroad on Pryor street and Central avenue. By no possibility can she prevent or escape very serious and permanent loss if she allows these bridges built with the general status remaining as it is at present.

Now, as to the future disposition of the Western & Atlantic railroad. It is well known that the present lease will expire December 27, 1919. It is not too soon, therefore, for the state to begin to consider what steps she will take toward protecting her citizens in determining for the future on her railroad.

I assume that practically very few people entertain any thought other than to lease the road again. Hence, the question hinges upon the most advantageous method of leasing it.

It has been proposed in some circles to lease it for a period of ninety-nine years, fixing the annual lease income on an ascending scale divided probably into a certain rate per month for the first thirty-three years, a certain higher rate per month for the next thirty-three years, and a still higher rate for the third period of thirty-three years.

THIRTY-YEAR LEASE ENOUGH.

I am quite clear, however, in my conviction that the state ought not to consent to a lease for a longer period than thirty years. No one knows what may be the conditions, commercially and otherwise, thirty years from now. There may be complications which would result in serious discrimination against her people and great loss to the state if she bound herself to a lease of practically a hundred years.

Therefore, she should hold it within her power to take back her road about once in the life time of each generation and adjust the new lease to the conditions then prevailing.

By this means she could be reasonably sure that the people in general in the power to hold their own with the people of other states within future decades, for bear in mind that each generation is entitled to solve its own problems in its own way. We know not what complexities will confront our children and grandchildren in handling the affairs of the state, and should not handicap them.

I know that it will be stated that if the road be leased for a very long period of years the lessees would then double-track it and make all other improvements needful for holding it on a parity with its competitors; but there is little reason to doubt that a company leasing it for thirty years, beginning at the end of the present lease, would be justified in making such improvements as the property would need. Furthermore, it is proper in fixing the new lease to take a smaller amount of rental for five or seven years than would be fixed for the five twenty-three or twenty-five years, with the agreement that the new lessees would double-track the road by the end of seven years and make other corresponding improvements. This would be a matter of details for consideration.

I recommend, therefore, that your honorable bodies provide for a commission consisting of three or five citizens of Georgia, to be appointed by the governor, whose duty it shall be to formulate a plan for the future leasing of the Western and Atlantic railroad, yet it may be best to defer action on this subject until your session in 1914. This will allow ample time for mature consideration, whereas, if all action were deferred for your successors, the next general assembly, the matter will not receive the careful thought it merits.

Respectfully submitted,

AUTOGRAPH OF GOV. BROWN.

Governor.

POWERFUL BACKING GIVEN TO '13 CORN CLUB PLANS

Backed by a wide and enthusiastic sentiment in favor of making the 1913 Georgia corn show the greatest in the movement's history, the special committees of the Atlanta chamber of commerce will enter in earnest this week into their whirlwind campaign to raise money for the show. A considerable portion of the necessary sum already has been subscribed, and all the committees expect to finish by Wednesday.

The movement has been endorsed by leaders in every business and profession, and particular stress has been laid on the fact that not only the prosperity of the rural districts, but the growth of Georgia's cities and the advancement of the state as a whole is dependent on learning the lesson of crop diversification.

"The movement which the corn club work represents," says Governor-elect John M. Slaton, "is more important than any legislation. It lies at the very base of prosperity for the individual and the state. It is 'beyond' legislation. It represents the greatest work that can be carried on, and deserves the support of city and country alike."

STRONG ENDORSEMENTS.

Colonel W. L. Peel, of the American National bank, says:

"The corn clubs have accomplished already a great work. I am informed that the yield of corn in Georgia was increased last year by over 25,000,000 bushels. The best of it is that these boys are teaching their daddies how to raise corn. The movement is the one that everybody interested in the prosperity of Georgia should help along. We need diversification of crops, and we need it badly. If we have plenty of corn, grain and potatoes planted when the boll weevil comes—and it will come—Georgia will derive a blessing from what might otherwise be a curse."

"We had four of the corn club boys in our home last year, and four the year before, and we are going to have four again. They are fine, manly youngsters."

DIVERSIFY TO SAVE.

Frank Hawkins, of the Third National bank, says:

"Crop diversification is the salvation of any section. That means in Georgia that we must learn to raise our food stuffs. I think the Georgia Corn club work is the greatest influence now operating in this direction. I contributed to it last year and I will contribute gladly again this year. If we raise corn, then we can raise meat, and that means that the farmers will have money. I was raised in the country and I never saw a farmer who had corn to sell who was not fixed all right for cash."

Colonel Robert J. Lowry, president of the Lowry National bank, says:

"The corn club boys are beginning to teach their fathers something. The old man used to be satisfied with fifteen bushels to the acre, and was inclined to laugh at the boys when he set out to beat it. Now he knows better and is helping the boy.

"I don't know of any greater agricultural movement than this, and it should be encouraged in every possible way. If we can get 100,000 Georgia boys into the corn clubs, it will be worth as much or more to Georgia than the entire cotton crop of the state."

BOLL WEEVIL A BLESSING.

Mr. W. S. Lounsbury of the Travelers' Bank and Trust company, says:

"The future prosperity of Georgia depends on her becoming a self-sustaining state. She must use her foodstuffs. Records have shown us that in Texas the boll weevil was a blessing in disguise, because it forced on Texas the wisdom of crop diversification. Georgia is warned in advance. The remedy is at hand. If we plant plenty of corn and grain, the boll weevil can not hurt us. Now is the time to prepare. The corn club is doing more than any one influence in the right direction, and deserves public support."

J. K. Ottley, of the Fourth National bank, says:

"The boys are alive to the value of corn club work, and we are beginning to realize more and more what a splendid investment it is to assist the boys the annual Georgia corn show is. I entertained some of these boys at my home last year and will be glad to have some of them with me again this year. They are fine youngsters and I believe the agricultural future of the state is safe in their hands."

Charles E. Currie, of the Atlanta National bank, says:

"Georgia has simply got to raise her food stuffs to make her cotton crop on, and the sooner we realize it the better. The farmers can not pay $1.25 a bushel for imported corn, and then make cotton growing pay. I think a start is being made in the right direction by the boys' corn clubs and Georgia corn show work."

Similar expressions have been received by Secretary Walter G. Cooper from scores of other prominent Athanians; and support is coming in from all branches of business and industry

They Will Leave 600 Strong in Special Trains Next Tuesday Night

Filling two special trains over the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, the Fifth regiment of Georgia will leave Tuesday night, July 8, for an eight-day camp at St. Simons Island, off the Brunswick coast.

More than 600 officers and men will make up the regiment, the twelve companies being recruited to their full strength for the outing. Colonel E. E. Pomeroy and his fellow officers have been hard at work for several weeks making arrangements for the trip, and feel assured that the regiment will practically be complete.

Each year the troops of the various states have a summer trip. One year it is maneuvers, all hard work, tough work, broiling under the hot sun. The "off years" are devoted to a seashore camp, but this does not mean that no work is done. The presence of four regular army officers assures plenty of drilling and setting up work, though there is plenty of time left for sport.

WAS BOY DROWNED IN RIVER ATLANTA YOUTH?

The police believe that the body of a youth found the other day in a river near Ansonville, N. C., was that of an Atlanta boy, J. M. Sampson, son of G. G. Sampson, who is believed to live in this city.

When the body was found there were no means of identification on it or the clothing. Some distance up the bank of the stream was found a letter. It was signed J. M. Sampson, and was written, it appeared, to his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Sampson.

The local police have been asked to locate G. G. Sampson, but so far their efforts have been in vain.

The Governor's Message.

With this particular kind of prowess Governor Brown, in his farewell epistle to the Legislature, shows himself well endowed. He bites away with his old-time relish upon those virile laws and institutions which the people of Georgia have established for their freedom and progress. Harking back to issues that were settled years ago, and satisfactorily, it would seem, to everyone except himself, he nibbles, here, upon the pure election law and, there, upon the railroad commission and tops off his remarkable meal with a saucy fling at working people of the State who have organized for social and economic betterment.

Far be it from us to question the Governor's right or to break rudely upon his little revel. We trust he enjoys the performance; and the commonwealth, we are sure, is undisturbed save for a passing sense of itching irritation that will soon be forgotten. The pure election law should be, and will be strengthened, by an amendment providing for permanent registration but the basic principles of that useful measure will remain indestructible and unimpaired. So, too, with the other progressive laws which he has repeatedly but vainly sought to undo. The fact is the Governor is fretting over issues which cannot be revived simply because they have been decided justly, and therefore finally, and the people have passed contentedly on to things that are new and vital.

There is, however, one passage of this valedictory message that is seriously to be regretted—that in which he seeks to arouse class prejudice and enmity by an attack on federations of trade. What a pity it is that in this season of peace and concord, when all good citizens have cried truce to outworn partisanship and in this State, where labor and capital are drawing ever closer in a common interest and sympathy—what a pity it is that the Governor's last official word should be one of mockery against this wholesome spirit! Happily, however, we may rest assured that this thrust will fall short of its intent and find no lodgment in the thought of a sober and patriot-minded people.

Sometimes the man who prays long and loud in public needs it most.

Some people never talk about anything but the weather. Luckily this is the climate for them.

Cruel Traffic in Birds.

One of the minor but none the less commendable features of the tariff bill as it passed the House was a clause prohibiting the importation of certain wild bird feathers and plumes for other than scientific or educational uses. This provision, inserted at the instance of conservation leaders and heartily approved by public sentiment, was so reasonable and so humane that it was expected to stand without challenge.

It now seems, however, that certain interests are bent upon amending this clause of the bill in such a way as to destroy its effectiveness. There is apparently no justification, whatsoever for this change. The Washington Post well says in this connection, "The slaughter of birds at home and abroad has reached such huge proportions that the hand of the Government should be laid upon the business. It is not merely a brutally selfish traffic, fiendish in the details of its commercialized cruelty but it is extravagant and costly to the people. Unless the importation of wild bird feathers is prohibited the United States will remain a partner in this iniquitous traffic."

If this Government, however, places its ban upon the practice of tearing to pieces living mother birds for the sake of commercial gain and upon other equally wrong, if less abhorrent practices, a long stride will have been taken toward ending such evils throughout the world. It is much to be hoped that the prohibitive clause placed in the House bill will be retained.

Charity sometimes begins where repentance leaves off.

The man who gets the most of it may not get the best of it.

Fostering European Peace.

It is said that no royal guest at Buckingham palace was ever given a more gracious welcome than that accorded yesterday to Raymond Poincare, President of France, who is visiting England. And his greeting from the rank and file of the people was no less distinctive; as he passed along the streets of London, they showered him with roses.

This is a token of the happy relationships that are being fostered among all the great Powers of Europe. Despite the continual buzz of war gossip, it is evident that the leading statesmen of the Old World are doing what they can to strengthen the spirit of peace; and certainly that is the temper of the masses. It was but natural, of course, that a President of France should be heartily received by the nation to which his own is bound by a common diplomatic interest.

Yet, it is to be noted that the interchange of such visits has of late become frequent among the sovereigns or executives of all European governments, regardless of the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente. Only a few weeks ago the king of Spain was the guest of France. Similar courtesies have recently been passed between Germany and Russia and the celebration of Emperor William's anniversary marked the coming together of rulers and the statesmen from every corner of the continent.

These are more than merely pleasing formalities. They bear a significance that reaches into the mind and purpose of nations. They show that diplomacy is now constructive and that the same wise carefulness which prevented the Balkan war from becoming a far-flung international menace is exerting itself to maintain good feeling among the dominant Powers. That there is need for such a policy is obvious but the important thing is that this need is being seasonably met.

Wherewithal to spend our vacation is the problem.

Once more we recognize in the vacation literature such old favorites as the "booming surf."

Congress will have to stay through the summer if it really intends to encourage the Washington baseball team.

The "Fifth's" Encampment.

The Fifth regiment, National Guard of Georgia, is preparing to leave on Tuesday, July the eighth, for a nine-day encampment at St. Simon's. The excursion will mean much to the efficiency as well as the pleasure of these Atlanta soldier boys and will enable them to represent more creditably than ever before the city which is proud to claim them as distinctly its own. The trip will entail no individual expense; it will be financed entirely by the national Government.

There is one particular, however, in which the business men of Atlanta can be of great service to this interesting and worthy enterprise. They can grant their employes who are members of the regiment a leave of absence for the encampment, letting this period count as the regular summer vacation. It is believed, and certainly it is to be hoped, that arrangements to this end will be readily made. All of our representative business institutions follow the wise custom of giving their employes a vacation. There should be little or no difficulty in allotting for that purpose the nine days of the encampment, so that two commendable causes may be simultaneously served.

Atlanta is the only city south of Baltimore having a complete regiment of its own. This is a fact of rare civic distinction and one of which our people as a whole should show due appreciation. In the personnel of its men and officers, the Fifth regiment is representative of this community's highest standards and best interests. It merits the public's cordial encouragement. As a matter of civic patriotism, all employers who are concerned will do well to cooperate in making the encampment a success.

Mexico seems to be determined to be something of a Balkan situation itself.

When a man can travel as far on his nerve as others can on an excursion ticket the railroads are sure to lose money.

Judging by the number of people you see, quite a few have decided that the city of Atlanta admirably solves the vacation problem.

Repair Peachtree Road Now.

It is reassuring to learn from the statement by Chairman Shelby Smith, of the Board of County Commissioners, that the work of repairing Peachtree road between Fifteenth street and Buckhead will begin within the next fortnight or ten days. The commissioners have evidently given due weight to the public protest which followed a former announcement that this sorely needed improvement was to be postponed until the latter end of the summer. Such a delay would have been a grave injustice to the community and, except in the most unusual circumstances, would have been inexcusable.

The Commission's original plan of beginning repairs on Peachtree road immediately was the fair and logical one. This great thoroughfare concerns the comfort and the material interests, not of one district or of one group of citizens alone, but of the county as a whole. As a matter of simple justice to taxpayers, it should not be left in its present rundown condition a day longer than is necessary to assemble laborers and machinery for its repair.

It is to be hoped that no circumstance will be allowed to interfere with the Commission's latest purpose of beginning this all important work within two weeks at the latest, and much earlier if possible.

Our idea of contract is a hail storm any of these June days.

THE PHILIPPINES

XIV.—The Bureau of Agriculture.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

One of the most important agencies of the Philippine government is the bureau of agriculture which was created in 1901. The scope of the bureau includes the collection and dissemination of useful information on the agricultural resources of the islands; the improvement of methods of cultivation and the practicability of introducing new and valuable agricultural products; the introduction of new domesticated animals now found in the islands, particularly the reduction of the diseases of live stock, and in general the promotion and the development of the agricultural resources of the archipelago.

* * *

The first director of agriculture was F. Lamson-Scribner, who served for two years. His successor was Wayne C. Welborn, who after four years was succeeded by George C. Nesom, to whom the great success of the bureau is due. Dr. Nesom served seven years as assistant director and director of the bureau of agriculture, resigning to go in the sugar business. The present director of agriculture is Frederic W. Taylor, a noted horticulturist of Nebraska.

* * *

One way by which the bureau hopes to get great practical results is through the establishment of small demonstration farms in different provinces, in the equipment and management of which the bureau and the provincial will cooperate. They will be established as the funds become available until finally there will be one in each of the thirty-one provinces.

* * *

The principal work of the bureau is done through the veterinary division, the division of animal husbandry, the division of agronomy, division of horticulture, the fiber division, demonstration and extension work and the writing and publication of agricultural bulletins. Stock farms are maintained at Alabang, a few miles from Manila, at Trinidad, in the Benguet islands, and La Carlota, in the Ilagan tobacco station. The bureau is trying to improve the native breeds of cattle, horses and swine. Good results have been had from the Chinese animals and their crosses are easily subsisted on the natural range grasses. They also have been successful with Indian cattle. Public live stock breeding and live stock exhibits have been a feature of the past two years.

* * *

The bureau has been up against many stunning propositions such as animal diseases, droughts and pests, but the greatest of these has been animal diseases, such as rinderpest and surra. Rinderpest has raged in the islands for nearly 200 years. Statistics from Spanish times are incomplete, but it is known that the inroads made by this disease among the carabao, which is the only work animal of the Philippines, were terrible, and a fight of ten years by the bureau of agriculture has not wholly succeeded in stamping it out.

* * *

Rinderpest is an internal disease the exact cause of which never has been discovered. It affects cattle not only in the Philippines but also in India, Egypt and South Africa. The Philippine government spent thousands and thousands of dollars for several years in inoculations, an expensive serum laboratory was built and the bureau of science was provided with increased feciilities for the manufacture of serum. This policy began in 1909 and was abandoned in 1912 when wholesale quarantine was tried. In 1910 over 8,000 animals died of rinderpest and 83,000 inoculations of rinderpest serum were made. The quarantine system which is now used has been very trying and fruitful of great hostility on the part of the people. In 1911 it was necessary to call on the army for assistance, and at one time Philippine scouts were on duty. However, the difficulty remains that as soon as the strict quarantine is withdrawn, a single affected animal may enter the entire district making it necessary to do the work all over again.

* * *

In 1911 contagious pleuro-pneumonia was discovered in cattle imported from northern Australia. These animals were imported for meat purposes and it appears that the disease has not been permanently introduced in the islands. All importation of cattle from northern Australia was stopped, and through the modification of the order they are now slaughtered at Sisiman, several miles from Manila, out in the bay. The bureau had to face and solve this problem. It is safe to say that the islands lose annually 10,000 animals, mostly carabao, through rinderpest, surra, a foot and mouth disease, glanders and anthrax. This veterinary division consists of one Filipino and forty American veterinarians, sixty-four American live stock experts, 223 Filipino live stock inspectors and a few other specialists.

* * *

The division of agronomy is conducting experiments of great practical value under the direction of C. M. Connor, a horticulturist of South Carolina. For instance, in the matter of forage alone results have been obtained which will save the islands thousands of dollars every year. The bureau secured the services of Prof. C. V. Piper, of the United States department of agriculture. He worked in the islands many months, visiting many provinces and introducing a number of new forage plants. His investigations and those made by local agronomists showed that satisfactory hay could be raised in the islands at a cost that will enable the producer to market it for a lower price than that paid for the imported article. Crops were raised by irrigation at the Alabang stock farm to such good advantage that the government expects within a few years to raise all its own forage and thus save a large sum to the Filipino taxpayers every year. In fact, the time seems not too far distant when the army, the largest single consumer of imported forage, will be able to supply its daily feeding wholly with hay raised in the Philippines.

* * *

Recent experiments with a substitute for imported grain have also been conducted at the Pandacan forage factory. Experiments with corn meal are also being made on this line in the provinces of the islands, with this valuable assistance of the bureau, will produce a large part of the food which is annually consumed in the islands. Extensive experiments with imported sugar canes are being made. The quality of Philippine sugar is fairly satisfactory, but milling operations are still so crude that very low grade sugar is produced, consequently the bureau is doing all it can to develop the local cane and to encourage the importation and use of modern sugar machinery as well as combatting the pests which attack the cane.

* * *

For many years the bureau has been doing great work in regard to fibrous products, such as hemp and maguey. The very valuable results obtained have been due to H. T. Edwards, assistant to the director of agriculture and the leading authority in the islands on such matters. Last year Mr. Edwards and his staff, particularly Mr. Saleby, made a special study of this and other industries of Java; an exhaustive investigation in hemp, maguey and sisal, and a careful study of kapok which is a variety of tree cotton. Hemp, perhaps the greatest product of the islands and one possible of tremendous development, has been studied with great care since 1909. Because of defective methods of cleaning and preparing for market the bulk of the fibrous products is below standard grade. The work of persuading growers to produce a better quality has been quite discouraging. In many sections they claim that they are at the mercy of the local buyer, and so far as prices are concerned it makes little difference what grade of fibers is produced. Nevertheless the bureau continues to show the hemp raisers how to produce a better grade.

Literary Men in Active Life

Verily, this is a national administration in which the literary man is in clover. Time was when genius went in rags and sold its masterpiece for a mess of pottage. Now it goes abroad to consort with the kings and statesmen of the world. Walter Page represents the United States in Great Britain; Thomas Nelson Page is to go to the court of Italy; Meredith Nicholson, the Indiana novelist, has been nominated as minister to Portugal; Dr. Henry Van Dyke, known to all lovers of literary sweetness and strength, has been given the post of minister to the Netherlands, while in minor appointments we have such "near" litterateurs as Mr. Pleasant A. Stovall, editor of the Savannah Press, named as minister to Switzerland, and Mr. William E. Gonzales, editor of the Columbia (S. C.) State, as minister to Cuba. In addition, the president himself might properly be mentioned in the literary class upon whom fortune is smiling just now, as well as William Jennings Bryan, who has also done some notable work in that field.

The practical men "have nothing on" the literary fellows at present. It will not do to sneer at a poet any longer as a mere visionary or a dreamer. He and his kindred seem to be crowding the man of affairs in the big places of active life.

The Bumblepuppy Club

Permit me to ask the financial and moral support of your readers for a most deserving charity, the Bumblepuppy Home for Aged and Infirm Action Players.

This long needed institution has been founded for the purpose of freeing our card and social clubs from some of their pests. Among these are:

1. The man who wants to play all the hands.

2. The man who always takes his partner out when the latter is doubled.

3. The man who bids on five of a suit to the nine, because he "must bid something."

4. The man who never shuffles the cards when it is his turn.

5. The man who bids "two diamonds" on five to the queen, "just to push the other side up a bit."

6. The man who doesn't lead his partner's declared suit on a double.

7. The man who refuses to unblock a suit led by his partner.

8. The man who persists in making a "no trump" declaration after his partner has warned him that he cannot support a "no trumper."

9. The man who bids "three, four or five spades," "nine beans," "four cadunks," and similar informatory signals.

10. The man who bids badly, plays badly and disregards the etiquette of the game, yet has the nerve to criticise his fellow players.

THE RAGTIME MUSE

THERE'S ALWAYS SOMETHING.

Betty was "Miss Betty" when
I began to go to school,
And I loved her even then—
Sentimental little fool!
When my legal age drew nigh,
At her feet my heart I flung,
But she coldly passed it by,
Saying I was much too young.

Later—I did not repine
From this maladie de coeur—
I besought her to be mine,
But she said I was too poor.
Then at forty, wealthy grown,
Once again I asked her that Fateful question. With a moan
She said: "Oh, you are too fat!"

Then there passed of years a score;
I am famous, rich and gay;
Betty I besought once more,
But again she said me nay;
Blushed and giggled, but declined.
Shook at me her curls of gold,

A Batch of Smiles

The only unoccupied room in the hotel—one with a private bath in connection with it—was given to the stranger from Kansas. The next morning the clerk was approached by the guest when the latter was ready to check out.

"Well, did you have a good night's rest," the clerk asked.

"No, I didn't," replied the Kansan. "The room was all right, and the bed was pretty good, but I couldn't sleep very much, for I was afraid some one would want to take a bath, and the only door to it was through my room."

The other day in a Cleveland school this composition was handed in by a little German boy:

"The sheep are weak and foolish animals. They are very useful. We can use everything on them except their bleat. The sheep learn their shepherd very easy, but other ways they are dumb animals.

"They eat hay, grass and carrot soup. And the captain of the sheep is called the Belle-buck."—Woman's Home Companion.

The bill met with an ominous reception," said former Mayor Baehr, of Cleveland, discussing a measure that had failed. "Its reception was, in fact, as ominous as that accorded to the Christmas melodrama in the two-night stand.

"melodrama, 'Murdered at Christmastide,' was to be given for two nights in a small town. The first night there was a fair audience, but when in ac' three the senior villain said to the junior, 'Hist! Are we alone?' a voice from the gallery growled:

"'No, Hamfat, not tonight; but you can bet you'll be tomorrow night.'"

The Genius for Affection

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

Somewhere I have read, I forget where, of two who were discussing a certain woman, who was plain of face, unattractive of figure, the reverse of winning in manner, and who undoubtedly held firm the devotion of her husband, children and friends, and the explanation was "she had the genius for affection."

After all is said and done it is this that counts. Say all you will of other conditions of a happy marriage, fortunate is the woman with this gift.

We are familiar with the rules for connubial bliss; there must be similar tastes; one must marry in one's class; there must be mutual esteem; there must be "conciliation, concession and compromise;" the wife must please hubby's stomach, dress up for breakfast, and not nag; and the husband must be a good provider, give his wife an allowance, and be sure to take her to plenty of theaters and suppers, lest she elope with the violinist, after the manner of Clyde Fitch's characters.

Yet the woman with "the genius for affection" will drive a four-horse team through all these words of wisdom and carry off her husband triumphantly.

She will hold him, though she be beggar maid and he be King Cophetua.

She will hold him in spite of all the head-wiggings of the worldly wise.

She will hold him against all the enticings of her rivals of the shadow.

She will hold him against a proud or a mischief-making cohort of relatives.

She will hold him against the bribes of a rich uncle.

She will hold him against the pull of business, booze and baccarat.

For marriage is not a piece of common work, like gardening or banking; it is more like a poem, a painting or a novel. It takes genius.

There are as few great marriages as there are great masterpieces of art.

There are not many women who are Michelangelos or Turners in love.

But as in the plastic arts, so in marriage, the art of arts: though but here and there one is great, yet we all scramble at it and do the best we can.

In these days of rampant suffragettes clamoring for woman's rights it is well not to forget the old original right of woman—the right to be loved.

We admire the woman who makes speeches, leads movements, practices law, writes stories, and beats man at his own game; but the woman who understands the art of getting herself loved loyally is still the Great Woman.

Quips and Quiddities

A fellow we know—one of those chaps who affect a terrible scorn for the lower classes, but who always pauses to hear a tale of woe from the lowliest victim of the present state of society—this fellow stopped on the curb the other day to hear the story of a little pickaninny who was weeping and alone.

"What's the trouble" asked our friend gruffly.

"Ah got a new baby brother at ouah house!" wailed the child.

"Then why do you cry? Angels bring baby brothers."

"Dass whatdey done tol' me. But why does de angels pick out all de blackest ones fo' ouah family?"

"I hear you," said Mr. Bent. "Two thousand pigs! Why, you must be crazy!"

A friend of the family had been summoned to testify, much against his will, as to domestic disturbances in a certain household.

"You saw those blows administered?" asked counsel.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

"Did you witness the beginning of the quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Dash?"

"I did."

"When was it?"

"Six years ago."

"Six years ago! How is that possible?"

"I was a guest at their wedding," said the witness.

At a banquet of New York newspaper men recently a story was told to exemplify the pride which every man should take in the work by which he makes a living.

Two street sweepers, seated on a curbstone, were discussing a comrade who had died the day before.

"Bill certainly was a good sweeper," said one.

"Y-e-s," conceded the other thoughtfully. "But—don't you think he was a little weak around the lamp posts?"—Everybody's Magazine.

HUMPHREY THROUGH WITH WOODWARD ON CREMATORY

Chairman Finance Committee Council Reiterates Charge That Mayor's "Stalling"

Councilman W. G. Humphrey, chairman of the finance committee of council, Thursday morning confirmed what was published in The Journal Wednesday afternoon concerning his views toward the mayor's behavior in the crematory matter.

"The Journal published that I had lost patience with the mayor on the crematory, and that is true. I have lost patience with him. He told me he would sign a contract if we drew one. It was drawn and submitted to him, and now he refuses to sign it. So far as I am concerned, I am not going to waste any more time with him where the crematory is concerned. I favor council going ahead and making a contract over his veto, if necessary, and when the question comes up I shall vote to override his veto. As to The Journal quoting me as saying that the mayor was 'stalling and four-flushing,' that's what I said. I am done with the mayor on the crematory, and I told him so.

Mayor Woodward was in a very unpleasant frame of mind Thursday morning. At first he declared he didn't have a word to say. Then he changed his mind.

"You can just quote me as saying this," said he, banging his fist on his desk.

"It has been intimated several times that the electric generating feature of the crematory is the reason why I am opposed to it. I have tried to keep my temper in the face of those falsehoods. I have branded them as false. Now I denounce any man who says the Georgia Railway & Power Co. has anything to do with my attitude on the crematory as an infamous liar. This goes, no matter who says it.

"And so far as the crematory contract is concerned, I want to make plain, once and for all, that the contract has never come to me officially as yet, and I'm not going to consider it until it does come to me officially."

Asked what he meant by this, the mayor explained that he would not consider a contract until it had been passed up by council.

Council members say the reason the mayor will not commit himself to a contract in advance of its passage by council is that after council has passed a contract he can make objections to it and thereby necessitate starting all over again and passing another contract, and thus delay the matter indefinitely.

Attorney Samuel N. Evins, of Evins & Spence, said Thursday morning that he was in hopes of Councilmen Humphrey and Colcord, together with Alderman Harwell, being able to reach an agreement with the mayor on a crematory contract. He said he understood these three would confer with the mayor some time during the day.

Mr. Evins also took occasion to say this:

"The published report in a morning paper that I said the Georgia Railway and Power company is back of the mayor's opposition to the crematory is an error. I have not as yet made any charge as to the mayor's motives in the crematory matter, or as to the influences that may be responsible for his attitude."

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr., of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of my head, and I had spells of dizziness. ENGLISH PHYSICIANS NOW DISCREDIT FRIEDMANN

Following Report of American Doctors Canadians Say There's Nothing to Justify

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 26.—The committee appointed by the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis to investigate cases inoculated by Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann with his anti-tuberculosis vaccine at Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and this city, submitted last night its report on the 181 cases studied.

"As a result of our observation," the report says, "the following conclusions seem justifiable.

"1. The inoculations have neither constantly nor frequently been followed by marked change in the clinical course of the disease.

"2. The cure or progress towards cure claimed by Dr. Friedmann for the treatment has neither constantly or even frequently taken place in the time during which cases have been under observation.

"3. Thus upon investigation the committee finds that the results have been disappointing and that the claims made for his remedy by Dr. Friedmann have not been proved and that nothing has been found to justify any confidence in the remedy."

J. O. ADAMS WANTS CHAIR INSTEAD OF GALLOWS

Representative J. O. Adams, of Hall, probably will introduce in the legislature a bill providing for a permanent place for the execution of felons under death sentence, by electrocution.

Mr. Adams believes that an isolated spot on the state farm at Milledgeville could be fitted as the death chamber and that all executions could take place there by electricity.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Blackburn Will Doubtless Head General Judiciary Committee.

Representative R. B. Blackburn, of Fulton, will, it is said, be given either the chairmanship of the general judiciary committee of the house or made vice chairman of the rules committee. He will most likely receive the former assignment, which is one of great importance.

With Mr. Blackburn at the head of the general judiciary committee Fulton's chances for getting another superior court judge and also Atlanta's chances for obtaining a municipal court instead of the justice court system, will be greatly increased.

Mr. Blackburn is an experienced legislator, having served two previous terms in the house. He was also a strong supporter of Speaker W. H. Burwell.

Representative Miller, of Bibb, Will Be One of House Leaders.

One of the new members of the general assembly who will, from the very start, be numbered among the leaders, is Representative Wallace Miller, of Bibb.

Mr. Miller is a son of Judge A. L. Miller, of Macon, and is himself one of the most prominent young lawyers in that city. He is a close personal friend of Speaker W. H. Burwell and has a wide acquaintance among influential men throughout the state.

Two Members of Legislature Once Police Court Recorders.

"The Police Court Bench as a Stepping Stone to the Legislature," would be an appropriate subject for an article which could be written by Representatives Shipho Myrick, of Chatham, and Charles A. Picquet, of Richmond. Both of these are former city recorders.

Representative Myrick at one time presided over the police court of Savannah and Representative Picquet occupied a similar office in Augusta. They both made excellent records and won the attention and approval of the people of their respective counties so that when they offered for the legislature they were very easily elected.

Former Senators Here To Greet Old Friends.

Two cronies of former legislative days, ex-Senators "Bill" Morris, of Augusta, and "Bill" Ennis, of Rome, hung around the upper house chamber wistfully on the opening day and exchanged greetings with everybody.

Both appeared late as had been their senatorial custom in years gone by, and Senator Morris reiterated his well known boast that he had never heard a senate chaplain pray.

The former Augusta senator rendered great service to the members of the upper house in 1911-1912 by his valiant and successful fight opposing 9 o'clock as the convening hour of the senate. This hour was favored by former Senator I. H. Bush, of Camilla, who believed in the early to bed early to rise philosophy of life.

Senator Ennis, who was former chairman of the senate committee on appropriations, hung around, listening to the bunch of gossip being handed out on the matter of state finances.

Senator G. D. Ferry and His Big Panama Attract Much Attention.

Senator Grant D. Ferry, of the Twenty-fifth district, is wearing a Panama hat that is both the envy and admiration of every other member of the general assembly.

This hat, which is of the type worn by the typical South American diplomat, measures twenty-five inches from brim to brim on the other. It is curled gracefully in front and shapes downward in the rear.

The senator from the Twenty-eighth does not have to depend upon his hat alone for distinction. He is a commanding figure, being more than six feet tall and very broad-shouldered. And behind his spectacles are a pair of sparkling eyes.

Wise Will Try for Congress Again in Primary of 1914.

J. Walter Wise, of Fayette county, has stated that he intends to again be a candidate for congress from the Sixth district in the primary election of 1914.

Mr. Wise ran a very close race against Congressman Charles L. Bartlett, of Bibb, last fall, and both he and his friends are encouraged to believe that he will show up much better in a second contest. His vote was especially heavy in country precincts and he claims that Judge Bartlett got his small majority in the city of Macon.

Judge Allen Will Ask No Favors In the Way of Committee Places.

Friends of Judge John T. Allen, of the Twentieth district, who Wednesday morning withdrew from the race for president of the senate, thereby making the election of Senator J. Randolph Anderson, of the First, unanimous, declare he will not ask for any particular committee assignments from his victorious colleague.

Appreciating the ability of his former opponent President Anderson has, it is said, held open the chairmanships of the committees on finance and constitutional amendments, so that if he desires, Judge Allen may choose the one of his preference.

Although recognizing this spirit of magnanimity on the part of President Anderson the very close friends of Judge Allen insist that he will not seek honors for himself but that he may request good committee places for some of those senators who worked so hard in his behalf.

GEORGIA CENTRAL BEGINS PLANS OF COLONIZATION

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 26.—Announcement is made today by the Central of Georgia Railway of the purchase of 3,000 acres of land near Albany, Ga. The tract will be cut into small farms and offered to Western settlers.

This is the first attempt the Central railway has made toward colonization.

A small part of the tract will be reserved for a test farm, but the greatest portion of it will be sold to those who want to establish themselves as farmers in Georgia.

Don't Whip Your Wife If She Wont Book--- Just Eat Bananas

If your wife doesn't get up in the morning and prepare your breakfast in time to send you off to work, don't whip her; eat bananas and apples or anything else that doesn't require culinary knowledge to prepare, and consider yourself filed. E. P. Perkins, of 140 Julian street, according to evidence submitted in recorder's court Thursday morning, went to the woodshed and got a strap with the firm intention of spanking Mrs. Perkins in the good old-fashioned way when she refused to quit the quilts and prepare a morning repast Wednesday. The wife had her spouse arrested.

"Husbands and wives must regard the feelings of each other," said Recorder Nash R. Broyles after he had weighed the merits of the case. "If your wife doesn't feel like preparing your breakfast sometimes, get it yourself."

Perkins was put on probation.

Eleven-Year-Old Dragged to Death By Monster Kite

NEW YORK, June 26.—James Kossina, a boy of eleven years, is probably the youngest victim in the long list of fatal aviation accidents.

He was carried to death yesterday while flying a kite. He was on the roof of a six-story tenement building in the East Side, when a gale from the East river caught his kite and pulled him to the edge of the roof. He did not think of letting go of his kite string until too late to save himself, and he fell six stories to the ground and was instantly killed.

BRIDGE OVER OCMULGEE SEEMS CERTAINTY NOW

ABBEVILLE, Ga., June 26.—Dodge county's commissioners met Wednesday in Abbeville with Wilcox county's commissioners to discuss the proposed building of a bridge across the Ocmulgee river to connect Wilcox and Dodge counties.

Both counties agreed to Abbeville's plans for the bridge and ordered a survey of the river and swamp to see how much it will cost and also to find the best place to put the bridge.

Prospects look very good indeed now for Abbeville to get the bridge. It will prove a great convenience to all of this section of Georgia, as Hawkinsville now is the last point at which the river is bridged.

EUGENIC MARRIAGE BILL BEFORE STATE SENATE

Senator Hixon Would Wrap Drastic Limitations About Marriages

The doctrine of eugenics were set forth in a bill introduced in the state senate Thursday by Senator J. T. Hixon, of the Thirty-seventh district, providing against the marriage of persons mentally inept, addicted to the use of alcohol and drugs or afflicted with any virulent disease. Senator Hixon declared that the measure was introduced by him at request.

First among its provisions it prohibits the marriage of any male under eighteen years and any female under sixteen years. The bill is styled a measure "to control and regulate marriage."

Express provisions are set forth against the marriage of persons addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors. These provisions are especially drastic, as are the parts of the bill referring to persons afflicted with tuberculosis and other dread infectious diseases.

For the first time in bills favoring eugenic marriage, pellagra is listed as one of the tabooed diseases.

MACON GETS ICE MUCH CHEAPER THAN ATLANTA

Rate War in Central City Gives Macon Ice $1 Cheaper Per Ton

Competition between two companies, which has become so hot that it has been carried to the courts for adjustment, has resulted in Macon's having an extremely low price on ice this summer while Atlanta is sweltering long at the usual rates.

In Macon the wholesalers pay $3 per ton for the commodity, which is making life bearable at this time of the year, against $4 per ton paid by the wholesaler in Atlanta.

In the matter of ice, Macon is fortunate in two respects. She has two warring companies in the field, and in addition there is said to be an "over supply of ice" in the Central city.

The rate in Macon is going to get no lower, despite the war, for the Southern Ice and Coal company has temporarily restrained in the superior court of Bibb county, the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation from further cutting the price of ice.

W. B. Baker, vice-president and general manager of the Atlantic declares that the Southern Ice company started cutting the prices and that his company had to meet their price to keep its business.

Now that it has succeeded, he says the Southern company has gone to the courts to stop the cuting.

Mr. Baker says however that an over supply of ice which had to be sold is principally responsible for what he terms the "present rate" in Macon and he says that the war with the competitor is simply an incident there.

The retail rates here are on a graduated scale depending on the amount of the purchase, and vary from 30 to 40 cents per hundred pounds, while in Macon the rate is 25 cents per hundred pounds. Practically all of the sales of the company in Atlanta however are made at the 30 cent rate, making the difference to the consumer in Atlanta and Macon about 5 cents per hundred pounds.

When asked about the report that his company is supressing competition over the south, Mr. Baker pointed out that his company has three competitors here, two in Jacksonville, one in Rome, and two in Macon.

TEN DAYS OF HEAT, AND END ISN'T IN SIGHT YET

A heat wave has gripped Atlanta for ten days. Ninety-degrees temperature have become a chronic affair since June 16, and there is no let up in sight, according to the predictions at the weather bureau.

The highest temperature Wednesday was 91 degrees, a figure which apparently was to be equalled during the day Thursday. At 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon only 88 degrees had been registered by the official thermometer, but the weather man said that it was probable that the 90-degree mark would be passed again.

Only once in the past ten days has the maximum temperature fallen below 90 degrees. From June 16 to June 23 90 was reached every day. On June 24 89 degrees was the highest, but on the 25th up again went the mercury to 91.

Fair Thursday night and Friday is the forecast, which means that there will be no immediate cessation in the heat.

PROFIT TAKING AND BEAR PRESSURE CAUSED DECLINE

Market in New York Closed 7 to 15 Points Down From the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 26.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of one to two points on other disappointing cables and sold three to four points net lower during the early trading. July seemed to be relatively the strongest position in advance of the notices expected tomorrow. August was relatively firm, its strength helping to hold the new crop months. Private cables reported realizing in Liverpool with the market sustained by a good demand for July-August, supposed to be against yesterday's sales of long spot cotton by foreign houses. Weather advices were considered generally favorable. Local spot houses and Liverpool were moderate sellers of July on the decline.

Rumors that latest returns to the National Ginners' association indicate a condition 3 points per cent, comparing with their report of 86.7 per cent last month, indicated rather less improvement than anticipated and steadied the market. Prices at noon were about 2 to 3 points net lower.

Rumors that the National Ginners' association made the condition 86.7 per cent, following early afternoon and market rallied to practically no closing prices on yesterday. Later prices eased off on continued realizing or local selling inspired by a private crop report warning which was thought likely to mean rains in the central belt.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, June 26.—Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 1 to 5 points on local cables and continued dry weather in the cotton region. The weather map notes scarcely any rain in the belt and temperatures were moderately high. The market was easy now in the early trading with nervous fluctuations. After the initial slight advance there was a sag to a level 2 to 4 points under yesterday's close on the report that 1,000 July notices were circulating. The market quickly recovered and at the end of the first half hour of business stood 1 to 5 points over yesterday's close, July showing the most strength.

The factor of continued fair weather over practically the entire belt stimulated buying and toward the middle of the morning offerings were three to eleven points over the last figures of yesterday. June made the widest advance, being strengthened by the quick stepping of notices in this month and the confirmation by bulls that notices in the New York market would be as promptly stopped. Late in the morning the market became very dull and prices sagged under small offerings from longs who wanted their contracts off their hands were six points up, net, on July and one to two points down, net, on the new crop months.

Saving and Investing

HOARDED MONEY.

BY JOAB H. CAGSON.

My friend J. G. McWilliams, secretary of the savings bank section of the American Bankers association, said the other day that there were $300,000,000 money in this country to a total volume of more than $300,000,000. The figures are approximate—they can be only a guess.

This great sum, impossible to ascertain definitely, is actual currency which is kept in trunks, in pockets, in vaults and pots buried in the yard, in all sorts of hiding places. And two reasons exist to explain it.

Many people who get money don't know what else to do with it than to put it away until they need it for living use. The fact that they can get something from somebody who will use it until they themselves have to spend it is unknown to them.

Among those who know that banks do exist which will pay them for the temporary use of money, there are a great number who won't trust the banks. How great is this number?

Mr. McWilliam points out that only 21 per cent of our people are depositors in banks which take time savings and pay interest on them. This compares with 38 per cent in Japan, with 36 per cent in France, with 31 1-2 per cent in Germany, with 31 1-3 in England.

Bringing into the banks the $300,000,000 which is supposed to be hoarded would add only between 3 and 4 per cent to the total of savings deposits, and probably not above 3 per cent to the total number of depositors. Our 21 per cent of savers might be raised to 26 per cent.

As the investigation of the hoarding habit extends the number of those who keep their own money in their own possession will be found to increase. I cannot believe that the percentage of actual money savers runs so largely against us as the figures would indicate.

I believe that it is up to the savings banks and all the other classes of banks which take savings and pay interest on them to push with greater and greater vigor the campaign to educate everybody to the simplest conception of the earning power of money. They can go that far even if it seems hopeless to make the doctrine understood that money not in use, money hoarded and kept out of the channels of business, is a handicap to a nation and a cause of the high cost of living.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

Times-Democrat says: All along price opponents have contended that the cornered cotton in Liverpool and New York would be sent to outer factors, and none of them devoted any particular attention to July as New Orleans. Now the bear party learns that several mills have been quietly buying up July at New Orleans and that they are ready to receive cotton on the contracts they hold. The significance of this is apparent when it is remembered that the demand for actual cotton in the south exceeds the offerings, and that actual cotton owners experience no difficulty in selling at full market values. Meanwhile the bear has no plausible excuse for not covering contracts over European trade conditions, and sees fresh danger in the steps of the Italian cotton trade.

On the other hand bell weevil talk is attracting increasing attention, the latest reports being to the effect that the cotton plantations in Mississippi, recently purchased by an English syndicate, are badly infested. Optimistic crop condition reports do not make quite so much impression as they are expected by those men, who of late have drawn their daily information and forecasts from the weather map and for the first time in many years find the way clear yesterday to re-assert their claim that the cotton crop outlook has not made satisfactory progress because of an adverse start and nothing else.

Map very favorable; partly cloudy to fair belt, few local showers at scattered points, mostly in Carolinas and eastern Georgia. Staple: Temperatures except warmer in Memphis district, generally favorable. Increasing cloudiness generally, scattered showers particularly in Atlantic.

Mitchell and Cone were leading buyers July. Liverpool and the continent said to be selling July, but the spot houses were the principal buyers. Hentz was buying August and selling July. Commission houses were buying new crop.

Forecast—

Louisiana: Tonight and Friday fair in north, generally cloudy in south portion, scattered showers in southeast and central portions. Probably stationary on the coast.

Arkansas, Oklahoma and West Texas: Tonight and Friday generally fair.

National Ginners make condition 82.6.

Hallenbeck-Crawford-Anderson: Cotton similar to 1911, his summary very bearish, but John Doyle telling wire is contrary.

Storm-warning—Wireless reports indicate disturbance over mid-Atlantic gulf, near latitude 30, moving northeastward, attended by strong winds and rain. Local storm-warning ordered displayed Atlantic and west Florida coast. Small craft warned to remain in port until further advices are received.

This storm is causing the bearish as it indicates that the rain developments over the western belt will not be general and that the crop outlook days and cause the desired general rains.—Kof-fee.

New Orleans—About 1,000 July notices out all cleared by spot people which is significant.

STOCK GOSSIP

Dow-Jones summary: Chicago and eastern Illinois receivers to issue $4,000,000 receivers' certificates. Following conference at Washington, leading financial sections of currency bill providing for retirement of national bank circulating notes in twenty years and refunding of government 2 per cent bonds substituting therefor 3 per cent bonds without circulating privilege are to be introduced. Board of governors of stock exchange rescinds rule forbidding members to have dealings with consolidated members. Bank of England rate unchanged at 4½ per cent. Twelve Industrials advance 0.11. Five active bonds decline 0.15. American stocks in London, firm, generally ½ to ¾ higher. Short interest situation continues to increase.

The Bank of England rate of discount unchanged. London prices are higher on the theory that the court will allow the present plan of dissolution of the Union Pacific to be carried along. Would buy stocks on all weak spots as the tone is low, crop prospects are good, and many other factors are developing that will restore confidence and bring investors into the market again.—Potter.

Cincinnati and Ohio sold 5,500,000 notes to New York insular interests at 4 per cent interest and was of sunnier amount than rumor had indicated. Total issue of $10,000,000 is planned to sail for Europe was regarded as strongest indication that segregation of Panama bonds is fully arranged.

Chesapeake and Ohio earning third week June increase $135,000 from July 1st, increase $653,000.

Wells-Fargo declared regular semi-annual dividend of 6 per cent.

M. and St. L. declared regular quarterly dividend of 1 per cent on preferred.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter Ocean says: Wheat traders said that so long as there are supporting orders on break to the 90 cent level and the condition of northwest spring crop is so uncertain, it is not safe to sell. Corn traders are not taking bulges. Corn traders called attention to heavy reaction in the short interest on the part of the local professionals, due to firmer prevailing for cash oats and lighter receipts. They also made the point that the short interest is due to worm its discount under September. It is also stated that several big houses quarterly dividend of 1 per cent on preferred.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co., say: Map shows fair rains at several points in Canada, Dakotas, light showers in North Dakota and quite general precipitation in Canada and Minnesota. The firmness in the cash markets is also quite generally regarding northwestern situation are hpt to be steady influences.

Corn—Partly cloudy with very little precipitation are shown. Local interests are credited with buying on the weakness. The situation appears strong on the bull side. Country today in a monsoon zone.

Provisions—There seems to be a disposition to take profits on strong spots but we do not look for any material decline.

John Inglis says from Grand Forks: Many points in North Dakota had good showers but most places reporting rain had nothing but light showers.

Kansas City says corn and wheat bullish says: Clear and hot at all stations, but winds reported at Hayes City yesterday.

Reports to Snow, Pukico, Mo., crops are suffering for rain generally, he says, oat crop will not make half crop.

Weather map from Aberdeen, June 25: Weather continues warm and threatening, but rain so far strictly local and not enough to help any except in small area in the county today.—Inman Gratin, Roberts, Day and Marshall counties. Rain in the first two almost perfect, while dry to sign of burning. In west part of other two burned costs beginning to show crops needing promptly, must have general rain. Those showers are not general in Spink county.

Mr. and Mrs. Salmon Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Salmon entertained Wednesday evening at their home in West End in celebration of their first wedding anniversary.

A color scheme of pink and white was observed in the decorations which were very elaborate. The front lawn was enclosed with canvas and growing plants and flowers made a picturesque effect. Indoors pink roses and daisies were used to give color to the elaborate decorations of palms and ferns.

The greens were banked on the mantels and cabinets, and the flowers made pretty masses of color in the rooms.

Fifty guests were invited.

A RIVAL TO THE SMALL HAT

One of the new large shapes for young girls that some milliners hope may oust the tiny hat. It is of white net with a loose brim wired to stand away from the face. MARRIAGE OF MISS HARRIET COLE AND MR. ROGERS KEESE

The marriage of Miss Harriet Cole and Mr. Rogers Keese took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. H. D. Cole, at 8:30 o'clock.

The bride entered with her brother, James Howard Cole, and the only other attendants were Miss Elizabeth Cole, maid of honor, and little Miss Sophie Davis and Atwood Cole, who carried the ribbons which formed an aisle through the beautifully decorated rooms. Mr. Roy Dorsey was the best man.

Rev. Dr. Yarbrough, an uncle of the bride, who has officiated at the weddings of three generations of the family, was the minister, the ceremony taking place in the drawing room before an altar of palms which filled one end of the room with their massed green. On the other side tall brass candelabra held white tapers, and above the wedding party there was a canopy of smilax, its shell-shaped scallops outlined with a fringe of pink roses and lilies of the valley, numbers of little rose-shaded lights adding to the beauty of the effect.

A tall vase filled with Bermuda lilies formed the base of the canopy, and the same lilies, with pink roses, were used on the high mantel, the walls of the room having a frieze of smilax which outlined the windows and doorways.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of lace made over chiffon, and the little cap to which the filmy folds of the wedding veil was adjusted was also of lace. A chaplet of orange blossoms held the veil, and her bouquet was lilies of the valley and orchids.

The young maid of honor wore a hand-made lingerie gown combined with lace, and carried pink roses.

The service was witnessed by the families and a few friends, a beautiful reception following the service.

Mrs. Cole received her guests wearing a becoming gown of white satin. Pink roses and lilies were the flowers used throughout the house, with a backgrou[nd] of palms, smilax and ferns.

The [ob]long dining room had as a cent[er] oration a plateau of pink roses [a]nd lilies of the valley, a tall silver [can]delabra, rising from the center, h[eld] rose-shaded tapers. The minor [de]tails repeated the white and pink [the]me of the flowers, and on the mantel and buffet there were silver vases filled with pink roses.

Punch was served on the porch, which was a delightful open air parlor, with hanging baskets of blooming plants.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Keese left for a wedding trip, and on their return will be with Mrs. Cole until fall, when they will begin housekeeping.

Cornerstone Laid

The cornerstone to the annex for the widowed Confederate Veterans, which has recently been added to the Home for Old Women in West End, was laid this afternoon. The ceremonies were in the hands of the Grand Lodge of Masons, Mr. Thomas H. Jefferies acting as Grand Master.

Music contributed to the interest of the occasion, and there were several brief addresses in which the work of the Gedon circle, which has charge of the home, was highly commended.

After the formal program, punch was served on the lawn, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

The Home for Old Women has been much improved recently. The beautiful old colonial home, which forms the main building, has been painted; and, by the erection of the annex at the rear, the Home has extended its usefulness greatly. The annex is a memorial to Confederate soldiers, and is to be used for the widows of the Confederate dead.

Getting the Most Out of A Holiday.

In order to get the fullest enjoyment out of your week-end holidays, approach them with a peaceful and unruffled mind.

That is to say, be forehanded enough to decide in advance what you are going to do, where and in what manner you are going, and what purchases need be made for your comfort and recreation.

JOURNAL advertisers try to simplify matters for you. Their announcements contain a world of just the kind of information and suggestion you need.

Nothing so dulls the keen edge of vacation or half holiday enjoyment as to fret over purchases and arrangements that should have been made in advance, or to discover, too late, some little thing left undone or forgotten.

Reading JOURNAL advertisements will frequently bring to mind a forgotten item which will save your outing from annoyance or irritation.

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

There are so many kinds of pockets these days that look like coats that the onlooker can hardly tell which is which. It is a good idea to make them this way, and it came about from the popularity of the tunic and the pannier.

Some of the frocks look as though they were skirts and Russian blouses combined, while others seem to be belted coats with fitted peplums that have a way of springing out from the hips at one side or at both. No matter what the shape of this simulated coat there is always a belt. In truth it is hard to see a genuine coat that has not a belt somewhere, either across the back or in the form of sash ends that start at the under arm seams and are loosely knotted below the waist line.

The addition of this peplum below the waist on a one-piece frock gives variety to the gowns and makes them quite different from what they have been in the last three years. When the material is soft these peplums are often double, such as one on a dark blue satin gown which is knife plaited to a wide girdle of the same material and is shaped to a deep rounded point at back and grades up to four inches in front.

There is another kind which is also made double, but has a brilliant color used on the inside, which shows with every movement of the wearer. This is carried out on a frock of thin summer serge which will be worn for traveling this summer. The peplum is slightly shorter in the middle of the front than anywhere else and floats into two deep points at the sides. The lining is of deepest purple satin and this color is repeated in the piping of a pointed sailor collar and turn over cuffs which finish the three-quarter sleeves. It is rather strange the purple should appear with so much popularity in hot weather, but in America they are not hesitating to wear it as in Paris, where they have gone in violently for violet shoes and stockings.

At all the races over there this month there were women wearing cothurnes of violet kid and suede, patent leather slippers with violet uppers laced with violet ribbon.

Over here we have confined the color so far to gowns and hats and of these there are plenty.

Smart Frocks with Peplums.

Even the gowns of white serge and linen and cotton ratine have some of shaped peplums below the waist to simulate a coat. There is one very good looking violet ratine model that can be copied by any woman in need of a new gown. The skirt is run with narrow side pleats, down the sides, which are stitched to the knees and then pressed into place. The blouse is quite loose and does not fasten in front, but opens to show a front of fine white batiste run in small tucks and lace. This has a turn over collar of itself and there is a larger one made of embroidered batiste on the neck of the linen blouse.

The sleeves are three-quarter length, are large and comfortable and are finished with four-inch turnover cuffs which are half covered with white embroidered batiste. So far the gown has a reefation air, but it is put out of the ordinary by the addition of a short peplum that is fitted to the figure except at the left side, where it stands out for two or three inches in a soft flare. This is the lampshade effect that smartly dressed women made so much of during the last month of winter.

The girdle is of black satin and is finished at the side with a shirred buckle from which hangs a wide streamer end that is flattened out on the peplum and stands out on a bias line with it from the figure.

The Universal Belt.

When fashion first brought in the fanciful girdle women thought it would only last for a month. But today it is very much on the increase, and promises to be a feature of every gown of the season. One always sees a girdle of some kind on these one-piece frocks that look like coat suits, and usually they are black.

The desire to use black ribbon in varied colors after the Cubist designs passed away after the first few weeks of experiment, but it may come back.

The Evening Story — THE BOARDER

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

Miss Libby staggered into the kitchen and, with a sigh of relief, hoisted a heavy market basket with which she was laden upon the table. "There," she said. "I'm tired out lugging that clear from Front street."

"Why didn't you have it delivered?" inquired Abby.

Abby was a full year younger than Libby, but she was a widow, and therefore entitled to more authority in the management of the small household. Now, while Libby removed her coat and hat, she went to the basket and began to empty it of its contents, placing each article out upon the table with audible comment.

"Cocoa, a soup bone, ginger, soda, cheese. What's this, Lib?" She had paused to peep into a paper bag.

"That's black tea," replied Libby, firmly. "Now, what in the world did you get black tea for? Elmer won't drink it."

"He said he'd like to try some and see if he liked it. I like it, and I know he will. So I got it."

"Libby Marx," Abby said, with a slow sneer, "you try my patience be*yond endurance. Elmer only said that* to be polite, because you're my sister. He didn't mean it. Elmer likes green tea. He's never drunk any other since first he came here to board."

"He's never had a chance to drink any other." Ominous red spots were hurrying out upon Libby's thin cheeks as she replied. "It's been green tea—green tea, and I can't bear it. Elmer's got to learn to drink black, for I shan't go on drinking green all the rest of my life."

Abby Look's blue eyes narrowed and gleamed like steel. "You talk as if it was all settled betwixt you and Elmer," she said, coolly. "I can tell you right now, Lib Marx, you've missed your calculation there. Elmer Sweet hasn't got any more idea of marrying you than he has of——"

"Marrying you," said Libby.

It was Abby's turn to redden. And with that swift accession of color her secret was out for her sister to see. In that moment beside the kitchen table they stood revealed each to each in a way there was no mistaking.

"Well," she said, rather faintly, but defiantly still, "it naturally looks as if a woman that'd got one husband could get another."

"You'll never get Elmer Sweet," cried Libby angrily. "You'll never——"

The striking of the clock interrupted her. She looked at it aghast. Abby looked too. It was 11 o'clock! And Elmer must have his dinner at 12.

They put aside their dispute in the keen desire to minister to the object of their affections. Elmer must not suspect that they ever quarrelled—least of all, quarrelled over him.

Dinner was ready to dish up, and both black and green tea filled the kitchen with its aroma when Elmer came up the back walk, stopped at the kitchen door, and entered.

"Hello!" he cried, cheerily. He smiled at Miss Libby, who was bending over the stove, and he smiled at Abby, who was returning on some errand to the dining room. Both smiles were gayly impartial and quite unusual, for Elmer ordinarily was grave to depression. "It's a mighty cold day," he commented, rolling back his cuffs and preparing to wash at the sink.

"It is so," said Abby, while Miss Libby lapsed into sudden shyness.

"Bitter," said Elmer.

He emerged from his ablutions, fresh, rosy and good-humored—a plump-faced, sandy young man, considerably younger than either Abby or Miss Libby. Rather thoughtfully he stared from the window. A disinterested person would by this time have discovered that he had something on his mind—something far from unpleasant, yet unexpected and unusual, but the sisters perceived nothing.

Elmer Sweet had boarded with them four years. For four years they had cooked for him, darned his socks and sewed on his patches and buttons, and let his manly but diffident personality creep further and further into their hearts. They had vied with each other to make him comfortable. They had overlooked his masculine habits of occasionally scattering pipe ashes and leaving his newspapers flung about. They had wiped up the tracks his big feet made on the clean floor without a murmur. All this not because he was a regularly paying boarder whose money they needed, but because he was Elmer, though they would not own it to each other.

Elmer in his turn was very nice to them. He carried up the coal, mended hinges and the like, and saw that the walks were kept clean. Occasionally he took them to the moving picture show. He was never communicative about his affairs, and they had ceased to suspect that he had any sufficiently important to talk about. He worked in the factory and spent most of his evenings at home. And he "laid by" his money. This seemed to be the sum total of his innocent occupied existence.

"YOU'LL NEVER GET EMER SWEET."

Neither sister could have told when she began to dream dreams about Elmer—to imagine a time when he might become a permanent possession. Moreover, neither could have told when she began to look at the other with slowly encroaching jealousy. The fire had smouldered so long in secret that when today it showed an actual flame they had been dismayed, amazed. It seemed incredible to Libby that Abby should imagine herself the chosen of Elmer, and it seemed equally incredible to Abby that Libby should have so far-fetched a fancy as that of Elmer's preferring her. Underlying this mutual astonishment was another feeling more active and bitter—a violent enmity, which was bound to grow surely, although so tardily.

When dinner was called the sisters sat each at her end of the cosy table. Abby portioned out the food, while Libby poured the "drinkables," as she expressed it. Between them, at one side, sat Elmer. The sisters had a faint idea that Elmer had objected to Miss Martian because he had always seemed uncomfortably shy in her presence so when she went away they had not let anybody have her place. It made them, of course, plan a little more closely, but this was a small consideration when Elmer's comfort hung in the balance!

"Elmer," said Libby, "I've made some of the black tea. Would you like to try it?"

"I certainly would, thank you, Miss Libby."

"I'm very fond of black tea myself," said Libby. She shot a triumphant glance at her sister.

"When why haven't you had it all the time? I'm sure I'd been agreeable. Tea's tea to me," said Elmer comfortably.

"There's no sense in drinking what you don't like," said Abby tartly.

"But I'm bound to like black tea," cried Elmer jovially. "Do you use sugar, Miss Libby? Then I will, too."

Libby passed the sugar, her cheeks brilliant with exultation, while behind the roast and the tureen Abby turned sallow and sullen.

Elmer tasted his tea deliberately. Then he smiled merrily across at Miss Libby. "It tastes a little like a burnt mitten," he joked. "But I daresay I shall learn to like it. I'll have to anyway, I suppose."

"Not on my account, Elmer," murmured Miss Libby, crumbling her bread without eating it and looking down.

Elmer sighed. Then suddenly he pushed back his plate and looked straight at the turbulent Abby.

"Miss Abby," he said earnestly, "would you—would you take another boarder?"

Abby started. "That depends on you, Elmer," she replied.

He flung a laughing glance back at palpitating Libby. "I'm very anxious you should. "In fact—" he braced himself for confession. "If I stay on here you'll have to. She can sit over there." His eyes turning from Miss Libby rested tenderly on the empty place. He was rosier than ever. "She can sit right over there where she used to."

"Used to!" the words came at the same instant from both sisters.

"It's Miss Martian, you know," explained Elmer, dreamily.

"Miss Martian!"

"Or—or at least she won't be Miss Martian when she comes here." He had begun to stammer. "She'll be—You see, dear ladies, we're going to be married next week. That's why I'm trying to like black tea. She never drinks any other kind. We shan't bother you long, not after spring, anyway. We expect to set up housekeeping then. But I told her we'd better wait till we could look around a bit. I knew you'd take her in. You've always been so good to me, both of you, dear ladies, and I know you'd be just as good to Ruth. Won't you?"

He held out his hand to each. His plain, good face was actually beautiful in its tenderness as he pleaded for his *sweetheart. But neither Abby nor Lib*by could look at him as they pledged their fealty by whispering "Yes."

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

The trouble with a quarrel is
That then it's one begun
The whole world tries to push it on
And seems to think it fun.

It usually is anything but fun for those engaged in it, but their neighbors crow dabout and urge them on and do their best to make matters worse. It was just that way when Prickly Porky and Old Man Coyote met beside the Laughing Brook. Old Granny Fox had started the trouble in the first place by telling untrue stories. She had told Prickly Porky that Old Man Coyote had promised to dine on Porcupine the very first time they met, and she had told Old Man Coyote that Prickly Porky had boasted that Old Man Coyote didn't dare come into the Green Forest while he was there. Of course, both grew very angry, for each believed what had been told him about the other.

Now, until they met beside the Laughing Brook neither had ever seen the other, for you know Old Man Coyote had come out of the Great West, while Prickly Porky had come down from the North Woods. Prickly Porky took one good look and then he grunted. "I'll soon fix him!" he muttered. What he saw was some one who looked something like a very large gray fox or a dog, and Prickly Porky had put too many foxes and dogs to flight to feel the least bit of fear of the stranger grinning at him and showing all his great teeth.

But Old Man Coyote didn't know what to make of what he saw. Never in all his life had he seen anything like it. He didn't know whether to laugh or to be frightened. About all he could see was what looked like a tremendous great chestnut-burr on legs, which came toward him in little rushes and with a great rattling of the thousand little spears which made him look like a chestnut burr. Old Man Coyote had never fought with anybody like this, and he didn't like the look of those thousand little spears. The nearer they came the less he liked the look of them. So he backed away a few steps growling and snarling angrily.

Now it seemed that as if by magic the news that there was trouble between Prickly Porky and Old Man Coyote had spread all over the Green Meadows and through the Green Forest. Everybody who dared to go was on hand to see it. Sammy Jay and his cousin, Blacky the Crow, were there of course, peering down from the top of a pine tree and screaming excitedly. Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel and Chatterer the Red Squirrel actually sat side by side in the same tree, so interested that for once they forgot to quarrel themselves. Unc' Billy Possum and Bobby Coon cut their afternoon nap short and looked on from a safe place in a big chestnut tree. Danny Meadow Mouse and his cousin, Whitefoot the Meadow Mouse, shivered with fright while they peeped out through a crack in a hollow log. Peter Rabbit came as near as he dared and pepped over the trunk of a fallen tree. Billy Mink and Jerry Muskrat quietly swam up the Laughing Brook and crawled out on the farther bank, where they could see and still be safe. Of course, Reddy and Granny Fox were there, well hidden so that no one should see them.

And what do you think every one of them was wishing? Why, that Prickly Porky would drive Old Man Coyote away from the Green Forrest and off of the Green Meadows. You see, every one of them was afraid of Old Man Coyote, and right down in his heart each was hoping that Prickly Porky would be able to send Old Man Coyote off yelping, with his face stuck full of little spears, as once upon a time he had sent Bowser the Hound.

Veterans Go; Lookout Club Is Made Over

Release of Jordan, Chappelle and More Paved the Way for Bunch of New Blood. Others Clubs May Follow

"Give me young blood," is the cry of Kid Elberfeld, the Chattanooga mogul, and the Kid is certainly infusing the new blood into the Lookout squad. From the way the club has been traveling the past month it begins to appear that the manager is exactly correct in his decision to get younger players.

When Elberfeld took hold at Chattanooga, on the club was a bunch of players who had seen many years service in this league, and at once Kid decided they had been around too long and began to cut 'em off. The first to go was Otto Jordan, and then it was Bill Chappelle, and lately it was Forrest More.

To take the place of these veterans Elberfeld in each instance secured youngsters. He picked up boys who are just getting started at the game, figuring that he could train them in the proper way and get an especially valuable man. Maybe he is right and maybe he is wrong, but right now it looks like he is exactly right, as his club is going like a house afire, setting the pace for the other seven clubs.

Right now Elberfeld has almost an entirely new ball club. Gaff and Flick are newcomers on the infield, while Coyle, at first, is not an old man. In the outfield Bert King, Curt Elston and Johnson are all new to the league and while they are not the youngest in the world they are young in the Southern league and can therefore give better work to their club.

Not only has Elberfeld added new talent to his infield and outfield but has made over the battery department. Coveleskie being practically the only veteran who does any battery work at all. And Coveleskie is good enough for any club, no matter whether he has been aroound for one or five seasons. He just has it and with the good coaching he is receiving he is pitching grand ball.

The Atlanta club, while not entirely made over, has a lot of new talent and all the new men are playing jam up ball. The new men on the club are Bisland, Wallace Smith, Joe Conzelman, Paul Musser and Harry Chapman, and they are all doing good work. Players from other Southern league teams who are now wearing Cracker uniforms are Tommy Long, Harry Welchonce and Joe Dunn, and each is doing better work than i the past. The change has benefited each.

Other teams would do a bit better work, probably, if they would but get a few new faces and do away with the holding to old timers.

Boxing Bout Off

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 26.—The ten-round boxing contest scheduled between Tony Caponi, of Chicago, and Jimmy Clabby of Hammond, which was to have taken place here the night of June 26, has been declared off. Promoters said Caponi made a sudden demand for a higher guarantee than they cared to give.

VOLS LAND HURLER.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 26.—Phil Redding, a recruit pitcher secured by the Indianapolis American association club from the St. Louis Nationals, was sold yesterday by Manager Kelley to the Nashville club of the Southern league. Kelley said he had too many pitchers on his staff.

CONZELMAN IS MASTER

Crackers' Young Hurler Gets Away With Memphis--Long and Bailey Triple

MEMPHIS, June 26.—Wednesday's game with the Turtles resulted in another triumph for Joe Conzelman. Atlenta's new hurler. This brings his total up to four wins and no losses. This time it was a 1-0 shutout.

The fray was replete with tight places, and both pitchers pulled themselves out of bad holes. In the fourth inning, however, Harrell struck a big snag. One of his shoots ran afoul of Tommy Long's stick and was pounded for three bags. Some minutes later Bailey swung the bludgeon and gained for himself a second three-sacker, whereupon Long tallied. Harrell, who was a sadder but wiser man from that inning on, managed to avoid such pitfalls. Conzelman also was placed in several holes, but never for an instant did he waver, keeping his hits scattered, and making the Turtles pop up at the right time.

Butler, Wares and Schweitzer are the men who bore the brunt of Memphis' hitting, getting two apiece.

"IRON MAN" TO DO HURLING

The second game with the Red Elmers will be played Thursday in Memphis. The Crackers seem to have returned home from the temporary slump which they suffered in the miasmic swamps of Pellicantown. They have the swatsticks sharpened again, and are fielding at a better clip.

Memphis will send in Liebhardt and Seabough in the battery positions, while Atlanta will use Musser and Dunn at the vantage points.

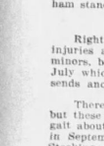
DOESN'T GET FULL CREDIT

One player on the Athletics who is seldom mentioned in connection with the team's success is nevertheless one of the strongest factors of that aggregation. He is Amos Strunk, the speedy outfielder of the Macks. Strunk has developed remarkably since last season, and he is today one of the most valuable men Mack has on his team. Not only is he one of the greatest fielders in the league, but he is a fast base runner and is hitting at a .340 clip this season. Strunk gets little credit for the important part he has played in the success of his team. He is seldom mentioned as having distinguished himself, and yet he has done as much as any other member of the team to make possible its remarkable winning streak. That any other team Strunk would be a sensation, but he is lost among the numerous stars which Mack has.

It is doubtful if there is another instance in baseball where a player has developed as fast as he. Two years ago Strunk was an ordinary player who was in the game but seldom. Mack farmed him out a whole season to Milwaukee, and it was while there that Strunk developed into a real star.

Onwentsia Wins at Polo

LAKE FORREST, Ill., June 26.—The Onwentsia Polo club defeated the St. Louis Country club team today, piling up a score of 15 to 2 3-4 goals and won the chance to compete with the Cincinnati club for the Midwestern Polo trophy. The championship game will be played Saturday. The St. Louis are the Kansas City Polo club will compete for a consolation cup. Onwentsia will enter the game with Cincinnati with a handicap of two goals.



BUNTS AND BINGLES

BY JULIAN MURPHEY

If you get right down to brass tacks, the woman who sticks her hatpin through a folded program and then plays the horse whose name she has pierced has got about as good a "system" as any yet formulated.

And you might say the same of the present race in the Southern league. The first four or five clubs are right now so closely bunched and playing such good ball that there is no telling just how the race will wind up. "Mobile looks mighty good," says one fan and then another will come right back with the outcry, "Chattanooga looks good for my money." And there are others who are naming Montgomery, Atlanta and some even go so far as to put a pin in the prediction that both Nashville and Birmingham stand an excellent chance of winning out.

ENTERING THE STRETCH.

Right now is when real baseball ability is going to count. Of course injuries always play a big part in the winning of a race in majors or minors, but it is the old game of real baseball which crops out long in July which tells the tale and leads one team to the top of the heap and sends another to the bottom of the debris.

There are scores of clubs that win pennants along in May and June, but these confalons count for naught. It is the outfit which hits its real gait about July and gets faster and faster until the wire is passed along in September or October. Remember the spurt of the Chicago White Stockings in the American league race of last season. Callahan just made the other clubs look like thirty cents through the strength the stretch into July and then he began to fall. He had shot his bolt while the real clubs were gradually conditioning the players for the stretch which wins.

SAME IN SOUTHERN.

A baseball manager these days must be one who knows how to use his head for something other than sitting his hat upon.

Until the past two weeks the Mobile club has appeared to be a world-beater and looked to have the Southern league flag sewed up but now it is all different. The club has gradually been dropping until right now there are three other outfits that have a strong chance for taking the "g. o. f."

There is no denying that Mike Finn has a good ball club. He has a marvelously well balanced club which gets everything out of the game. And right here he has it on seven other teams in the league. His pitchers go good while his batters and base runners are cutting out their best class of work and the fielders are accepting everything that comes their way. But at that the club has been going above speed and having the best of luck all the way. You know this old luck won't stick to one party all the while and when it turned and several P.'s boys were disabled the club began to slump.

Atlanta, Chattanooga and Montgomery have a good look in for the flag this year, and you can just bet that Billy Smith, Johnny Dobbs and Kid Elberfeld are using their heads for something other than the hatrack. They know what it means to enter the stretch at full tilt and right now they are priming for the main spurt.

Though the score card boys may be strictly truthful when they yell to get a score card "to tell who the players are," you don't have to have one to tell which team gets licked.

Another Turtle "Serum."

Yale to Continue Stroke

(By Associated Press.)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 26.—Gossip in what is left of the Yale college circle here is to the effect that Yale will continue to use the English stroke next year, notwithstanding the poor showing with it in its first trial in the regatta with Harvard last week.

It is said that A. G. Kirby, the Oxford coach who led in the instruction of the Yale crew this spring, may not return next year, but that Harcourt Gold, the other Oxford coach, probably will return.

Critics declare that Yale's trouble in the regatta last Friday was failure to stick to the new stroke. It is a well known fact among oarsmen that a crew which has attempted to adopt a new method of rowing will invariably revert to the old style when the men get to racing at top speed and become a little tired.

The victory gives Pennsylvania the year's series, two games to one.

Few Notes On Games

The heat was so intense at Montgomery Wednesday that Catcher Gibson, of Nashville, was prostrated and had to have the attention of a physician after circling the bases in the seventh inning.

Marquard lost the second game to Boston Wednesday. Al Demaree won the first for the Giants. The Braves have taken several reefs in their sail since Stallings took charge and are to be approached with considerably more caution than hitherto.

Conzelman tied a record yesterday. His performance in the seventh Wednesday when he fanned three men on only nine balls. The record is held by Rube Zellars, an ex-Atlantian.

The Savannah Indians, who won the Sally pennant for Lipe, have gone thirty-nine innings without being scored on. This includes Wednesday's shutout.

Ward had bright visions of fifty bones Wednesday when his line drive sped toward the "bull," but Tommy Long interfered and there was nix.

Yea, how fickle is baseball. Walter Johnson was tapped yesterday and in three innings a double, three singles and a home run were drawn from his delivery.

The Pirates busied themselves in the tenth inning on Wednesday, and after remaining scoreless up to the Cards for nine rounds they uncorked six hits, drew three passes, stole three bases, and with the aid of a sacrifice fly scored eight runs. St. Louis used three pitchers in this one inning.

Roy Walker, the Cleveland recruit who has joined the Pels, made his initial appearance against the Lookouts and fanned the first three men to face him. He struck up, eight hits and lost his game, 2 to 0.

Clarke Among The Greatest

Fred Clarke should always be named among the greatest of ball players. The manager of the Pittsburg club, who has been in harness for nearly twenty years, has never been anything but a star. After laying off from the game for a year he has come back into the line-up, and the surprising feature of his work is that he is apparently as good as he ever was.

Clarke, for some unaccountable reason, never attained the prominence that did Cobb and players of that type, and yet, when his long service and remarkable ability are considered, he was every bit as great a player as any the game has ever produced. Clarke is 41 years old, yet retains all the speed and agility which made him famous years ago. Not only has he been a wonderful player, but one of the most successful managers, and is one of the few players who are not handicapped in their playing by the burden which the managerial job brings to a player and which, in so many instances turns good players into poor ones.

Atlanta Star in Tennis Meet Carries Everything Before Him--Grant Is Out

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, June 26.—Rain interfered with the playing of the tennis matches in the play for the southern honors, yet a number of good matches were slipped over. Several matches in both singles and doubles were edged in between showers.

E. Phelps, of New Orleans, won from Wardel, of Memphis, by a close score. J. B. Adone, of Dallas, defeated Alfred Grima, of New Orleans. R. F. Shelton, of Dallas, won a good match from B. M. Grant, of Atlanta, in straight sets, and George Clark, of New Orleans, defeated H. J. Werts, a local man.

The semi-finals are on Thursday.

Record Spurt By J. M'Neil Gets Thrills

At Motordrome Meet Wednesday Evening the Scotchman Ran Like Mad -- Richards Shared Honors With McNeil

When J. McNeil cut loose his nerve-racking spurt on his giant motorcycle in the final match for the motordrome purse at the motordrome Wednesday evening every fan who was present got more than value received. The ride was sensational, thrilling and the kind which keeps people awake and makes them glad they are living.

Right at the getaway McNeil's machine went bad and when he again had it tuned properly the three riders he was racing were three quarters of a lap in the lead. Then it was that McNeil set out to do the overhauling stunt and made he didn't race. In the short three miles he came within twenty feet of catching the bunch and had it been necessary to circle the track again he would have been right out in front. It was the most spectacular race yet staged and had every man on his feet.

Wilmer Richards got away with the fastest time of the evening when he covered two-miles in 1:24 or an average of 86 miles per hour. Richards was always within the money, sharing with McNeil the big honors of the meet. Both of these riders always show good head work and when anyone gets away with anything on them they are traveling some.

Several new amateurs appeared Wednesday evening and did well. The Atlanta boys are fast taking to the racing game and before long a champion may be developed.

A REVERY.

How speed the ages on their way
How old Doc Time must flutter by;
How brief alas, each vanished day
As centuries arise and die;
For here I see it jotted down
As some famed legend builder wrote,
Where Babylon was quite a town—
And Yale had Harvard's goat.

But yesterday J. Caesar cleaned
The pennant up in conquered Gaul;
But yesterday Kid David beaned
Goliath with his swiftest ball;
And I remember from the mold
Of Things that Were—each vagrant note—
When Cleopatra knocked 'em cold—
And Yale had Harvard's goat.

Within my den at night I read
Forgotten legends of the years;
Gray age on age I lamp the screed
Of Hector's fall and Helen's tears;
Aye, back beyond Time's fading ridge
I hear Pan piping of the gloat
When Doc Horatius held the bridge—
And Yale had Harvard's goat.

A CRIMSON CHORTLE.

Sir—Kindly note again that "in the bright lexicon of victory there is no such word as Yale."—J. Harvard.

YES, WHITHER?

Whither are we drifting? Cornell no longer "sweeps the river;" Yale can't win at one of four major sports from Harvard, and Frank Chance is leading a tail-end club.

There is a limit to everything—even unto the dope. But in the meanwhile, what's the answer?

(Loud voice from somewhere—Syracuse, Harvard and the Athletics.)

THE OLD STANDBY.

In the midst of these days of upheaval and such we must turn somewhere to an old landmark for sustenance, now that Ty Cobb is also running second.

Where can it be? Where else but to Walter Johnson? While Johnson has only won fifteen out of nineteen games, we perceive by an exhaustive study of his season's work that ten of his nineteen contests have been shutouts and that in fifteen of the nineteen games he has held the enemy to one run or less. When in doubt, you can always turn to this cove for a cheering thought. Ten shutouts up to waning June, with four months to go—that's all.

AN APPEAL.

Frank L. Chance would like to get in touch with the public spirted Chicago citizen who has offered the renowned H. Zim one hundred bones for staying in the game two weeks without being dispersed.

Mr. Chance desires that a similar offer be made to one of his pitchers for staying in the game two innings without having his block splintered by a series of line drives. If necessary the $100 bill can be torn into seven segments, each segment to be presented immediately after each pitched ball.

THE REIGN OF CRIMSON HOSE.

The hurricane season completed by Harvard finds the Red Sox also turning back into the main byway. Last fall the crimson hosed legion ruled both gridiron and diamond and there is now a fond wish around Boston Mr. Stahl will continue to follow in the wake of the crimson flag.

We picked the Red Sox last spring to battle it out with the Athletics, but injuries wrecked their early outlook. Now that the old machine is back it may yet furnish trouble before the year is out. Contrary to opinion in a good many quarters, the Red Sox outfit is quite a ball club with its full power in the field. A ball club that isn't to be taken too lightly, even by the predominating Mackmen.

As we understand it from the experts, the Syracuse crew wasn't very long on form. All it was good for was to push the boat through the water fast enough to finish first.

No one seems to fear the Phillies and the Phillies in turn are not bothering about the rest of the field. Thus recording an even break except in the standing of the clubs.

Alexander and Seaton together should win 60 games for the Phillies. But just where Dooin can dig up the other 37 needed from the rest of his staff is the answer to the N. L. race.

WE COULD HEAR THIS COMING.

Sir—The Harvards are now running away from the Yales, but I'm laying even money the Bulldog's football captain will Ketcham next fall. Know of any takers?

ELI BILL.

FOUR SACKER FOR HURLERS

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 26.—LaGrange lost Wednesday in a game filled with errors and slow playing on both sides. In the last of the ninth inning it looked like the score would be tied, but Cantley, for Talladega, pulled himself nicely out of a bad hole with every strong batter of LaGrange facing him and nobody out. The final score was 7 to 6 in favor of Talladega.

The championship in doubles was won by A. S. West and W. O. Bowie, defeating Roy and Henderson Lanham. The tournament was a great success, and was entered by representatives from many north Georgia towns.

COLLEGIAN MAKES GOOD

VALDOSTA, Ga., June 26.—Valdosta hit Hartner hard and won from Brunswick, 4 to 1. Gordon, the crack pitcher of the University of the South, worked his first game for Valdosta and pitched splendidly, giving up only two hits. His pitching was easily the feature of the game.

Two Middleweight Bouts

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 26.—Two boxing contests in two days are scheduled for Indianapolis, since Jimmy Clabby, of Hammond, Ind., signed to meet Tony Caponi, of Chicago, in a scheduled ten round bout, the night of July 4, at the Federal league baseball park. Jack Dillon, of Indianapolis is to meet Bill McKinnon, of Boston, at the American association ball park the night of July 3. Both bouts are to be at middleweight figures.

WALSH CLASS OF LEAGUE AT APPLYING WHITEWASH

Edward Armstrong Walsh, Comiskey's man of steel, will have to get busy shortly with the whitewash brush or he will lose his title of the Kalsomine King. The Chicago spitballer entered the present campaign ownlig 55 shutouts, which was seven more than possessed by any other American league hurler. Now the man who almost won the Chalmers American league trophy last season has only a four-game advantage over Eddie Plank, of the Athletics, who had blanked his opponents forty-eight times before the championship race started, and who has since fed them on goose eggs on three occasions. The Gettysburg southpaw twirled his fiftieth kalsomine event on May 22, when he subdued the Tigers by a score of 7 to 0.

G. Harris White, of the White Sox, ranks third among the American league wielders of the whitewash brush. He has fitted jackets of white on his opponents forty-five times. Walter Johnson's position is fourth, the Idaho phenom having executed thirty-eight neat kalsomine jobs. George Mullin, lately shifted from Detroit to Washington, follows with thirty-four blankings and then come, in the order named, 'Chief' Bender and Jack Coombs, with records of twenty-nine and twenty-eight respectively.

The seven men mentioned are the only pitchers who have passed the quarter century post in whitewashes. Six other artillerists have rolled up double figures, these being Tom Hughes, with twenty-four; Joe Wood, with twenty-three; Cy Falkenberg, with thirteen; Edgar Willett, with twelve, and Ray Collins and Jim Scott, each with eleven.

Three pitchers own ten or more shutouts over one club. The men with this record are Walsh, White and Hughes.

ATHLETES SWIPE SIGNALS
JOE BIRMINGHAM.

Manager Joe Birmingham, of Naps, is the latest person to tell why the Athletics are leading the American league. "Connie Mack and his men have stolen the opposing team's signs," says Birmy. All of which puts them in bad with all lovers of leanc sports. The chances are that the Athletics haven't stolen any club's signs; neither have they played unfair in any other way. They are winning games solely on their merits and deserve all the honor that goes with victory. The Mackmen have proved themselves to be the class in the junior organization, and its about 10 to 1 bet now that they will play in the world's series next fall.

Many fans believe that not only will the Athletics come back after a year's reversal of form, but that their opponents next October will be none other than the Giants. If such is the case it will be the third time that McGraw and Mack have locked horns in a world's series. The count to date stands even, McGraw beating Connie worse than six-love back in 1905 and Mack gaining the upper hand in 1911 nearly as easily.

Four-Oared Race Abolished

NEW YORK, June 26.—The four-cared race, a fixture since 1899 in the annual intercollegiate rowing regatta at Poughkeepsie was abolished today by the board of stewards. Morton G. Bogue, chairman of the board, announced that a two-mile race for junior varsity eight had been substituted.

Coulon Is Ill

CHICAGO, June 26.—The bantamweight championship bout between Johnny Coulon and Kid Williams, of Baltimore scheduled for July 29 at Los Angeles was postponed today by Coulon on account of his illness. Coulon said the date probably would be set for Labor day.

Boston Buys From Kalamazoo

BOSTON, June 26.—Pitcher Malloy of the Kalamazoo, Michigan club, has been purchased by the Boston American league team. He is a right hander and has been ordered to report immediately.

A peculiarity of children born on this date is that, while they are extremely comfortable and happy at night, they are inclined to unreasonable fears, fretting and distress of mind.

These children must be carefully nurtured and never needlessly frightened, as their nervous system is very highly strung and they need more calmness and repose than the average child.

A person born on this date will do well to marry a person having a birth date falling between February 19 and March 20. Much happiness will come from such a union.

Many eminent scholars and writers were born under this sign, being highly imaginative and strongly individualistic.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Crimson Clover

THIS is a crop that but little attention has been paid to in Georgia. I was more forcibly impressed with the value of this crop the past winter than ever before. In traveling through North and South Carolina these two states were almost like a velvet carpet, covered with a wonderful growth of crimson clover during the months of December and January. Most of the corn lands and many of the cotton lands were planted to crimson clover at the last plowing, and through the entire winter this wonderful plant drawn from the air and stores a vast amount of rich nitrogen in the soil. Usually a good coating can be had and the second growth will make a heavy sod to be turned under for fertilizer for corn or cotton. This is certainly a splendid idea. It keeps the land from washing during the winter months, answers as a cover crop and in addition to the abundance of good hay that it produces by one cutting it adds to the soil and fertilizer value at least $15 to $20 per acre, and when acid phosphate is used in connection with it as a fertilizer it makes practically a balanced food for the following crop and a heavy yield can always be expected.

There has been considerable amount of crimson clover planted in Georgia during the past winter, and everyone who has tried it speaks in highest terms of it, and I hope to see hundreds of acres planted to crimson clover during the coming winter. I think, however, the sun would be rather too hot to plant it with any hope of success until the latter part of September and through October, not only on our corn lands, but on our cotton lands. The cost of the seed is very reasonable, and I do not believe any one will ever regret planting most of their lands to this crop during the coming winter, especially if the seed are inoculated with the proper germs. The sooner our farmers get in a habit of planting a clover crop on their cotton lands and other lands to preserve them during the winter months the sooner will they bring up the quality of their soils and the producing capacity of them.

Georgia lands are capable of producing wonderful crops of most anything we desire to grow, but much of our land has been sadly neglected and abused and are not producing the amount that they should per acre. The yield per acre, especially to corn, could be increased more than double every few years by the use of peas and clover in building up our soils with vegetable matter and nitrogen. Thousands of acres of our soils with vegetable matter and nitrogen. Thousands of acres have been kept cultivated so closely to cotton that they are absolutely unfit to grow any kind of crop, and thousands of acres are cultivated at a loss every year simply because there is no food elements in the soil to produce a profitable crop. But, these poor, worn-out lands can be restored quickly and made to produce unheard of yields to such an extent that this country should never buy a pound of food of any kind, but how soon will we learn to take care of these lands, to rotate our crops and make three or four times as much on the same number of acres as we have been making heretofore. The labor proposition has become so serious that the farmers of this country are fast learning that they must take better care of their lands and when they do cultivate an acre make a profit out of it. And, there is nothing that will redeem our soils or make them more productive at less cost than crimson clover and peas. Everyone who is farming in Georgia should at least try a small amount the coming winter and I do not think they will regret it. I have five acres of Irish potatoes now which certainly show the effects of a clover crop of crimson clover during the winter, and I am fully convinced that as a fertilizer, to say nothing of one cutting of hay, that anyone ca nwell afford to plant it. It will pay them tenfold in the producing capacity of the crop following the clover.

Yours very truly,

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

QUESTION.

Buena Vista, Ga.

I have read your articles on the value of alfalfa to the farmers in Georgia with considerable interest. You stated in your last article that you could inoculate peas and sow them on the land and afterwards turn them under; that the inoculation would be sufficient. In other words, it would not be necessary to get soil from a field where alfalfa had been planted to inoculate the soil. Would like to know how you do this? I wish to try about two acres in alfalfa and demonstrate to the farmers that it can be grown right here in Marion county. If I am successful I believe it will be worth much to the farmers, but as I have had no experience in growing it, I do not know how to begin. Would thank you to prepare one acre on paper, that I might fix and plant without making a mistake. Most of this patch is a clay, pebbly land, a small portion next the street is sandy. I would like to treat it so as to get the best results. If I have to use lime, where can I get it? What ought it to cost, etc.?

ANSWER.

I will have for free distribution 5,000 books telling exactly how to prepare and plant alfalfa to make a success of it. These books will be ready by the last of this or first of next week, and will be mailed to any one who will send me a two cent stamp to pay for the postage.

I have hundreds of letters from people asking me to tell them just how this should be done. I have published this information at least half a dozen times, fully explaining, in The Atlanta Journal, but there are but few people who have kept these articles and still continue to write me about this matter. Therefore I have gotten out this little booklet, with some additional valuable information, that can be understood by any one, and, if it is followed, you cannot fail to succeed with alfalfa anywhere in the south.

You are under the wrong impression about the peas being turned under. I do not advocate this at all. Inoculated peas should be planted on the land now, the land plowed very deep before planting the peas. Then it will be ready for lime. Fertilizer and alfalfa seed in October in your section. This book will explain this fully, but the pea stubble should not be turned under any circumstances, or anyother land just before the planting of alfalfa. It should be thoroughly harrowed and disked until a fine seed bed has been made. Then there will be sufficient moisture in the soil to make the alfalfa germinate and grow successfully.

CHICKENS need more care and attention the next two or three months than at any other time during the year. It is perfectly possible for disease to have lice and mites and unless you look after them they will multiply in such quantities that you can not expect your flock to prove profitable. The little chicks will not make the growth they should and the hens will not lay if they are covered with these pests. We have remedies that will positively get rid of them and the cost is very little, for 25c you can get a can at other dealers, Conkey's or Pratt's Lice Liquid and we will guarantee either of these preparations to give entire satisfaction.

The work now under construction will cost $800,000. The building will stand sixteen stories above the sidewalk, with two stories under ground.

The Georgia congressman, though young in service as a member, is practiced in the art of running the house of representatives. He acted as parliamentarian for a couple of years.

PAINTER FAMILY LOSES FIRST FIGHT FOR BODY

Demurrer to Receivership of Viscera Overruled, but Proceedings Continued

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BALTIMORE, June 26.—Judge Duffy today overruled the demurrer t oproceedings instituted by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company, of Baltimore for the appointment of a receiver for the viscera of Edward O. Painter, of Jacksonville Fla., who recently lost his life in St. Johns river. The demurrer was filed by Painter's family.

The court gave the defendants in the receivership action until July 11 to file an answer to the proceedings of the Guaranty company and set July 15 for taking testimony. Judge Duffy said he had no doubt as to his authority to appoint a receiver for Painter's viscera, but said there was still a question of whether he had the right to appoint with the special order to conduct a scientific examination as is desired by the Guaranty company, which had issued a $20,000 accident policy to Painter.

An analysis of the organs already made showed no traces of poison, according to the chemists' report, but the Guaranty company is not satisfied, because representatives of the company, its attorney declares, were not permitted to witness the examination.

The viscera will be placed in the safe in the office of the clerk of the circuit court.

Frizzled Ham

Cut about a pound of fat ham into as thin slices as possible. Put a frying pan over the fire and let it become smoking hot, then put in the slices of ham and fry for two or three minutes. Then dust them with dry flour and continue to cook until the flour is brown. During this time have mixed one tablespoonful each of vinegar and dry mustard together. When the floured meat is brown, add the mustard and vinegar, together with sufficient boiling water to cover the ham. Boil gently for a minute and serve. Eggs may be cooked with the ham in place of the flour and water.

You Can't Hunt Elk In Georgia If This Bill Is Passed Up

State Game Warden Jesse E. Mercer proposes to have a bill introduced in the legislature to prohibit the killing, shooting, or driving of elk, imported or otherwise, in Georgia.

Mr. Mercer wants to import some elks from Yellowstone park to its Appalachian reserve in this state. To do so, there must be a state law protecting this species of animal before it is brought into the state.

HOWARD IS UNDAUNTED BY "BLACK HAND" LETTERS

Expects Favorable Report Next Week on "Jim Crow" Street Car Bill

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—By the threats contained in a score of "black hand" letters which he has received, Congressman Schley Howard expects to get a favorable report next week on his bill iprovoding for the segregation of the races in the street cars of Washington.

He has assurances from Chairman Ben Johnson, of the District committee, that the bill will be favorably reported, and if the Democratic caucus will consent, will be considered at extra session of congress.

It has been sixteen years since an effort has been made in congress to require the segregation of the races on the street cars.

Modern Interest in the Old

As I was strolling up Brattel street I noticed Professor Levanzin paying a visit to the old Longfellow mansion. Professor Levanzin is the well known exponent of the new medicine and radical ideas of diet who fasted thirty-one days last summer under scientific supervision at the Carnegie institute. That he should be interested in visiting the Longfellow home shows that devotion to new ideas does not necessarily preclude interest in things of the past.

AUSTIN GOING UP IN RAILWAY MAIL SERVICE

Atlanta Man Gets Division Chief Clerkship—In Line for Superintendency

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—It was learned today on seemingly good authority that W. L. M. Austin, of Atlanta, has been appointed chief clerk of the railway mail service for the fourth division, vice Charles Rager, transferred. The appointment of Austin is regarded by his friends as a forerunner of his advancement to the position of superintendent of the fourth division, vice George Pepper, who is slated for a transfer or demotion. Austin has been a chief clerk in the service on the Atlanta & Charlotte branch.

Ed P. King, of Atlanta, assistant superintendent of the fourth division, is an active applicant for Pepper's place, and the contest is believed to be between Austin and King. Austin has the indorsements of the senators and congressmen from Georgia, South Carolina, Florida and Alabama. King is strongly indorsed for the place also, and the postoffice department is being bombarded with requests for his appointment.

He has been in the service for many years, and it is contende dthat his record entitles him to the promotion. Moreover, King is in line under the civil service law for the position, and Austin must first serve as chief clerk before he will be eligible. It is the fact however, that Austin's elevation to the chief clerkship causes his friends to believe that the department is paving the way for his appointment as superintendent.

South Pole Discoverer Lost the City Hall

(By Associated Press.)

PORTLAND, Maine, June 26.—Captain Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the south pole, was unable to discover Portland's city hall last night until he had been taken first to the poor farm and then to various weddings. He finally brought up at city hall to find Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary and his audience greatly worried because he was nearly an hour late.

Amundsen's taxicab driver, it seems, misunderstood the explorer's directions as "city home" and the more Amundsen tried to straighten things out, the more confused the chauffeur became until, exhausting his list of events where a man with a dress suit might be expected, he thought of the lecture at the city hall.

ILLINOIS LAW GIVING VOTES TO WOMEN VALID

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 26.—Illinois is the first state east of the Mississippi to give women the right of the ballot. Its law has just been validated by the supreme court.

Attorney General Lucey does not find the suffrage bill unconstitutional. He takes the ground that the danger for the bill will arise when its champions seek to put it in operation. The bill becomes law on July 1.

questions as to Judge Speer's official conduct.

Judge Speer was quoted in the New York Sun of Sunday to the effect that he was being treated badly, that he was being hounded by detectives, who watched his home and who followed his every move.

It was intimated here in court circles before Judge Speer left that he would make an attack on Mr. McReynolds, the attorney general, and the methods of the department in spying upon United States court judges, in his address to the Iowa Bar association.

The remarks of the judge in Sioux City today will no doubt be read with widespread interest in this section particularly, in view of the fact that the investigation is still in progress. Investigator Lewis is now in Savannah looking into matters.

Investigator Jenkins is in Augusta, while L. J. Bailey, connected with the department of justice, with headquarters in Atlanta, spent several days here this week and left last night to join Mr. Lewis in Savannah. It is understood further that there are eleven men in all working on the case, and that they are visiting every point in the district.

Savannah Stirred Over Probe of Speer's Record

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 26.—Savannah has been much interested in telegrams printed in Atlanta and elsewhere relative to the investigations being made here into the affairs of the United States court. That the investigation goes considerably beyond the mere question of the records of the clerk's office is now known. Inspector Lewis, who is conducting the investigation here has visited many attorneys to ask them for information.

It is believed he has received several affidavits, but it is not known what they contain. Judge Speer has a good many friends in Savannah who are interested in the development of the investigation.

PALMETTO MILITIA IS CRIPPLED BY NEW ORDER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 26.—Local national guardsmen have been expecting the order from General Mills withdrawing the support of the federal government from the South Carolina militia, in view of the attitude of the governor Blease towards the recommendation of the army officers for the reduction of the regiments from three to two.

It is generally understood that Governor Blease has been pursuing a policy of opposition to the plans of Adjutant General Moore and the latter's support of General Mills invited the attack that the governor made upon the army officer. The national guard of South Carolina has been practically supported by the government appropriation, and the organization will be in bad form without it. The encampments will probably have to be called off.

JUDGE NEWMAN SUSTAINS LONG STANDING DEMURRER

Judge Newman, of the federal court, on Thursday sustained a demurrer in a case that he had previously sustained ten years ago. He said that in the interval he had had no cause to change his mind.

The demurrer was in the case of the Procter Coal company against the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company. The liability of the latter company in the matter of a bond was limited to the time from 1900 on.

QUARREL OF CHILDREN ENDS IN MAN'S DEATH

ANNISTON, Ala., June 26.—C. W. Saunders, an electrician and bicycle dealer, who was shot last Saturday by G. H. Bailey, furniture dealer and associate of Coroner Murphy, died at Sellers hospital here today. Bailey has been in jail ever since the shooting, which grew out of a quarrel between the children of the two men.

CONGRESS WILL STICK UNTIL DECEMBER TO PASS CURRENCY

Senator Ollie James Says Its a "Hoss" Race From Now on—Currency Reform Must Accompany Tariff Revision

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—"From this time on it will be a 'hoss race,'" said Senator Ollie James, of Kentucky, this morning.

The senator from the Blue Grass state made this sage reflection because he had learned that the president and his followers were preparing to remain in Washington until the regular session of congress in December rather than forego the passage of the currency reform legislation as the imperatively required complement of the tariff legislation.

The president and his supporters do not purpose to pass the tariff bill and then adjourn congress and permit the business of the country to be thrown into a state of chaos through the malign influence of the protected interests.

President Wilson virtually has abandoned his proposed trip to Panama to see the canal before the water is turned into it. He has given up all idea of being able to spend any particular time with his family at the summer White House in New Hampshire.

Realizing that there is a fight on, and that in all probability it is the biggest and most crucial he will be called upon to face during his term of the presidency, he has determined to remain on the ground and see that the fight goes to a finish.

The president said today that possibly the most time he would be able to have with his family in New England would be during the first week after they move up there. His plan is to spend that week there, and then to trust to circumstances for a chance to slip away to join them once in a while. They will be able to move. Their automobiles and other belongings have been forwarded and the White House set in order for the long absence.

Mr. Wilson has become cognizant of *the determination of the reactionary in*terests of the country to defeat the currency program. He takes no stock in the assertion about Washington that they will not interfere if he will make certain changes in the currency measure. He feels certain that such chances as they would ask would be for the purpose of retaining the present concentrated control of credits, thus making it possible for the limited group holding that control to menace the country every time things don't go to suit them.

Apparently President Wilson has no doubts at all that if the tariff bill is passed and signed without the support of currency reform the affected interest will throw the country into a panic and a consequent period of hard times.

In this he has the support of Secretary Bryan, who well remembers how the concentrated control of credits swung the combined business of the country against him like a well-drilled army in the last days of the presidential campaign of 1896 and was able to repeat the performance every time he ran for president after that.

Friends of Colonel Roosevelt say the president also has the moral support of the colonel, whose administration was attacked by means of an artificially created panic in 1907.

The determination of President Wilson to remain on the grounds until the fight for currency reform is over is due entirely to his realization of the size of the fight *in which he has em*barked. If he wins this, he believes the rest of his administration will be successful. If he loses, he will have nothing but fighting while in the White House, with every possibility of turning the government over to the reactionaries in the election of 1916. For losing this fight means the great probability of hard times brought on by the machinations of what is commonly described as the money power, and the party in power always loses in hard times.

CAMPAIGN PLANS PUT OFF UNTIL JULY 4

Congressional Campaign Committees Will Not Get Busy Until After Fourth

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Plans for carrying on the coming mid-presidential campaign will not be formulated by the Democratic and Republican congressional committees until after July 4, when senators and representatives begin coming back from holiday trips.

Chairman Doremus, of the Democratic committee, left last night for his Michigan home and will take up consideration of the committee's work upon his return early in July. His first action will be to choose a treasurer and five members to represent the congressional committee to co-operate with five members of the Democratic national committee as a joint executive campaign committee.

*The Republican congressional com*mittee has yet to select a chairman. It is understood an effort will be made to get as head of the committee a political executive who has, or can, command considerable funds for carrying on the campaign work. In both the Democratic and Republican national committees the necessity for getting sufficient funds for a thorough campaign has been pointed out.

WHEAT AND FLOUR AGAIN BEFORE TARIFF CAUCUS

Opponents of Countervailing Duty Fight Tariff on Agricultural Products

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Opposition to the recommendation of the senate finance committee majority for a countervailing duty on wheat and flour was afoot today when the Democratic caucus resumed work on the tariff bill.

The question was thought to have been determined finally in the caucus two days ago, but late yesterday it was brought up and there now is a sentiment to abandon the countervailing duty, leaving wheat and flour on the unrestricted free list with live stock and meats.

Opponents of the countervailing duty contend there is no necessity for a protective tariff on any agricultural products, if they are to be free-listed. It is argued that if any free-listed agricultural products are to be restricted all should be.

Schedules remaining today to be passed upon beside agriculture were silk, liquor, pulp and paper, sundries and free list.
